VISCOUNT GREY OF FALLODEN

THE PASSING OF ONE OF ENGLAND'S GREAT SONS

A MEMBER OF THE WHIG TRADITION

London, September 7.

Viscount Grey of Falloden, England's famous Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs from 1905 to 1916, died at his home at Falloden, this morning after a short illness.

England is mourning Lord Grey and pays tributes to him as a great Englishman of simplicity, sincerity and character.

Memories of his eminence in politics in ante-War Europe was recalled by the public during his twelve-day battle against his illness, occasioned by high blood pressure which had troubled him for many years. Before he relapsed into unconsciousness (he never regained consciousness) his last request was that the window be opened in order that he might hear the songs of the birds in the sanctuary he had made for these, his constant friends during his years of retirement.

The whole countryside around Falloden mourns a friend to whom they referred as "a natural nobleman."
—Reuter.

LORD GREY'S CAREER

Foreign Minister In Pre-War Decade

Edward Grey, first Viscount of Falloden was born in 1862 being the eldest son of Captain George Henry Grey. He was educated at Winchester and Balliol College, Oxford, being one of the famous pupils of the great Master of that College, Benjamin Jowitt.

At the age of 23, he was elected Liberal M.P. for Berwick on Tweed and sat for that constituency until his elevation to the Peerage in 1916.

In 1892 came promotion to Ministerial rank, Edward Grey being chosen as Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, by Lord Roseberry.

In 1905, upon the return of the Liberal Party to power, Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman selected him for the vitally important post of Foreign Secretary, a position which he held until 1916 when he followed his Chief, Mr. H. H. Asquith, into retirement. Apart from the holding, for a few months, of the post of temporary ambassador to the United States of America in the year 1919, Viscount Grey ceased to participate in public affairs after his resignation. Failing eyesight was largely the reason for this withdrawal at a comparatively early age.

Viscount Grey was twice married. In 1885 he married Dorothy, the daughter of Mr. S. F. Widrington, of Newton Hall, Northumberland. She died in 1906. His second marriage was in 1922 when he married Pamela, a younger daughter of the late Hon. Percy Wyndham and widow of the 1st Barron Glenconner.

In his younger days he was a very good athlete being winner of the M.C.C. and Queen's Club tennis prize in 1896. His main interest in sport was fly fishing, upon which subject he has written extensively.

The heir to the title is Capt. Ely George Grey.

Viscount Grey was one of the diminishing band of statemen who dominated England in the pre-War decade. The Liberal cabinet of that period was sharply divided into the Whig and Radical elements. Viscount Grey was one of the leaders of the former section.

Though he strove for peace with every ounce of his power, unlike his more advanced colleagues, led by Mr. Lloyd George, he had no illusion about the danger of war. He hoped to avoid it, but he had the difficult role of having to pursuade his colleagues that adequate armaments gave the only chance of staving off a conflict.

A member of a family of statesmen, he strongly represented the land-owing and aristocratic element of his period, and, this alone made his position difficult with the rise of the new liberal democracy. In fact he found more sympathy with the Opposition than with his own party. Though the former criticized him in matters of detail, they were particularly anxious to see him remain in the Foreign Office where his policy preserved the traditional dignity and firmness of Great Britain in world affairs.

LORD GREY AND THE KAISER

Lord Grey was singled out by the German war propagandists as the villain of the piece. He was the Macchievelli who had hedged Germany round with enemies and was seeking her downfall by all manner of treachery. The following story, which greatly amused Germany at the time may perhaps explain why he was disliked in influential circles.

Sir Edward Grey, at a state banquet in Germany, was sitting next to the Kaiser. Already his eyesight was failing, and, in stretching out his hand he upset a glass of claret over the table and onto the dress of the lady next to him.

The Kaiser exclaimed angrily: "Is that the way people behave in England?"

The British statesmen paused before replying. Speaking in German he said deliberately: "Your Majesty, These things do happen in England, and when they do, we do not notice them."

(Majestaet es kommt vor, aber man bemerkt es nicht.)

PREDOMINANCE IN THE COMMONS

To get a picture of the place occupied by Sir Edward Grey—for so the older generation think of him—one cannot do better than quote from the following studies by A. G. Gardiner, written in 1910:—

"If one were asked whose word carried most weight in Parliament to-day, there could, I think, be only one answer. Whether in office or out of office, whether to friend or foe, Sir Edward Grey is intrinsically the weightiest speaker of his time. When he sits down in the House of Commons, it is as though discussion has ceased. Other men speak from the bar; he speaks from the bench. He does not argue; he delivers a judgment. There is no appeal and no one asks for an appeal.

"If we seek for the source of this authority, we are struck, first, by the relative poverty of his equipment. There are many brilliant men in the House of Commons: Sir Edward Grey is not one of them. The point of his speech is plain to the point of homeliness. His thought is ordinary, almost conventional. He never coins a phrase that sticks, nor wears a rhetorical flower in his buttonhole. He has none of the arts of popular appeal. I remember him addressing a great provincial audience after the Fashoda crisis. It was an audience that had assembled to have its political partisanship stimulated. It sat in silence for an hour while Sir Edward told the story of Fashoda—about which the audience obviously did not care a rap—and praised Mr. Wyndham and the Conservatives for their conduct during the crisis. When he sat down the temperature of the meeting had fallen below freezing point, and only the fulminations of a local orator, whose poverty of aspirates was balanced by the richness of his enthusiasm, saved the occasion from utter failure. He is remarkable neither for learning nor ambition. His knowledge is limited, and his insularity a tradition. He never leaves the shores of England, and is reputed to have little French. He contrasts almost startlingly—to take an example—with Sir Charles Dilke, who is a citizen of the world, has been everywhere, knows everything, is like a well-kept office where you find the minutest detail pigeon-holed for immediate reference. Nor has he the industry that corrects so many deficiencies in others. His love of leisure is as notorious as his love of ten-

MODES of the MOMENT

PARIS PREDICTS

Paris at this season of the year is not only quiet, but is actually deserted. There are fewer foreigners than there have been for years. It is a tradition here that everyone, however modest his business, shall shut up shop at least for the month of August and go to the country. The uninitiated who starts out to visit his shoe maker, or his tailor is quite likely to find the big shutters drawn and a neat little sign, stating that the business is closed for the summer or the month.

If Paris, as represented by the smart world, is quiet, this does not hold true of one group. The houses of couture are busy. For this is the season when the autumn styles are being created behind closed doors. Everywhere in these great houses there is a stir and bustle. Representatives of the big fabric houses, Rodier and Bianchini, are bearing their precious gifts, the new woollens and silks and velvets they have created in recent months. Sometimes they create a new fabric and design for a single house, refusing to sell it elsewhere, thus guaranteeing to the favoured couturier, a real "coup" when the openings come.

Designers in a frenzy of creation, turn out new models by the dozen. It is not unusual for a great house to have several hundreds of new models for this important event. Smaller houses may confine themselves to a mere fifty or so, but in any case, there is a hum like a beehive up and down the Champs Elysees, around about the rue de la Paix, and the other streets where couturiers are located. But the hum is all inside hoping and praying that his choi locked doors. Every designer is cest secrets will remain secrets until the great day. Spies are watched for and guarded against as zealously as if t his were war. Only the most trusted employees are let into the real secrets.

As a result of all this caution, no one, or almost no one, knows what the feminine world may expect when the doors of the great salons are opened, and the models parade past with the costumes that women will be wearing for months to come. Of course, there are may rumours. Shoulders, say the wise ones, will continue to hold the limelight. There will be variety a plenty, with high shoulders, wide shoulders, drop shoulders, shoulders reminiscent of the 1890,s others suggesting an army on parade. One thing that seems almost certain, there will be no dull uninteresting shoulders this season.

Unless couturiers spring a surprise, skirt lengths will remain about as they are—and they are as individualistic as one could wish right now. The once troublesome waistline, too, seems to have settled down to its normal place, and there is not much chance that we shall see any revolution in that direction.

The Victorian influence will probably continue strong, with some houses going very Victorian, and others triking a sensible middle course.

All these are things we shall probably be able to count on. But when it comes to surprises, there is no one to say what La Couture may have up her puffed sleeve. She may go ahead in a normal way, changing a little here and a little there but making no drastic change. Or she may, in a fit of madness, turn the whole world of clothes upside down, as she did a few years ago when she lengthened the skirt and brought the waistline up to normal.

And it is this not knowing that is keeping five-tenths of Paris in a breathless suspene, as the other five-tenths busily drapes and molds fabrics and creates new designs behind bolted doors.

DRESS AS YOU PLEASE

Paulette Madoc Says

I have been asked what fashion is. But when that question is asked me, I always have to answer that I do not know. The only reply I can give is to be yourself. Often women come to me in Paris, and ask me what is the mode this year, or what is the smartest colour. I answer, "Dress as you please. Choose what is becoming to your." I know quite well that if women do that they will be smart and they will be individual.

I myself wouldn't dream of wearing a costume because it was the fashion. When I design dresses for myself, I design what I like. Often I design dresses for a mood.

Be Charming

I want every woman to dress so that she will be charming. You know what colours, what lines, express femininity for you. Colours that make your eyes brighter, your skin more luminous, your hair more lustrous — those are the colours you should choose. What does it matter if fashion says that blue is fashionable this season? If green or brown is your most flattering colour, then by all means choose it. Don't be afraid to be yourself. Don't be afraid to choose the style that flatters you.

Dressing to Please

Women have always complained to me that their husbands were not interested in cloths. Perhaps that is because women have so often been more interested in following the fashion than in creating beautiful costumes. I am sure that any woman who dresses to plase herself will soon find that the men she knows are pleased with her. They may not always know just how she has secured her effect, but they will be aware of her graciousness and charm.

And it doesn't matter either how old or young a woman is. In France, some of the most beautifully dressed women are above forty. And they are not only beautifully dressed — they are beautiful, because they have learned how to express their own moods and feelings in their costumes.

I think that The Ladies Salon must have the forthcoming Childrens Fete at Repulse Bay in view for they shewed me a number of most attractive little swimming-suits for children of all ages tremendously reduced in price. Most bathing-suits begin to develop holes, and look faded and shabby, at this time of year and most Mothers will feel they want their children to look nice at such an important event as The Childrens Fete, so now is the chance to get a lovely bathing suit at very low cost. There are many charming Kiddie-Frocks too at the Ladies Salon. Pretty gingham frocks for morning or schoolswear are only $4/50 with knickers to match. Dainty little dresses in pique voile and other pretty fabrics are priced from $8/75 the set, and I saw the most bewitching little partty frocks for children of many different ages in frilled or fluted organdie in all sorts of dainty colourings.

Coloured shoes to go with them, are to be got in gdeen, blue, and red, and are stocked in all sizes. A specially recommended shoe for kiddies is the well-known Etartrite shoe. These are specially designed and heeled to correct any tendancy to walk badly and ensure full support for the growing feet of little people.

The Felix Hat Shop

The Fifteen Day Sale is in full swing at The Felix all this week and Miss Kirkwood has brought out all her prettiest Summfer frocks to be cleared off. The "Marlene Dietrich tennis frock" with Waistcoat-top is very smart for the spoting type of girl, while her opposite number will like the pique frock with top and sleeves of spotted muslin made in the apron style. There are top sleeves of satTeThat There are many lovely voiles for ten dollars each and the black-and-white voiles struck me as particularly smart. There are also some really lovely Paris Hats included in the sale and some of these are really marvelous value and in the newest and most flattering styles. The prices range from ten dollars and when I say that hats in lovely wax-straw and the finest silky plaited straw can be found among them my readers will dealise that there are some exceptional bargains, to be get during the sale.

Whiteaway Laidlaw

In preparation for Autumn furnishing, many beautiful things are on view at Whiteaways. Most people feel inclined to indulge in something new at this time of year. Curtains begin to look faded after so much sunshine and covrs are apt to look shabby too; There are some beautiful fabrics in the furnishing department. Rich and glossy art silks come in all sorts of lovely shot—colours. Green and pale gold is one mixture bronze shot with silvery-gray is very lovely too and tones with almost everything. Art-silk-Slubs can be got for $3/50 per yard and are double width. Rich brocades are $4/50 a yard and the likewise double width. Covers for chairs or chesterfields are just two dollars per cover, regardless of size, and fit is guaranteed. Orders given in now will be promtly executed by expert cutters.

There are many very nice curtain materials too, and some lovely carpets. Genuine English Axminster carpets are made of pure wool and are fadeless. Many and various are the designes offered and the sizes are either nine feet by ten, or nine feet by twelve. Real Wilton pile-rugs are in most attractive patterns one in blue-gray had a most distinctive pattern of a blue-gray bird beneath a spray of plum blossom and was only 39/59.

Gordons, Ltd.

There is a display of very nice tennis shoes at Gordons this week. White ones of course can be got, but the ones which attracted me the most are the pretty styles in tan and fawn and pale coffee linen. These shoes definitely make ones feet look small and when worn with tennis socks to suit, they are most flattering to the feet. There are all sorts of pretty tennis socks at Gordons' from the usual knitted wool with coloured or striped top, socks with lace-woven roll top which goes particularly well with brown or fawn shoes.

Dolly Varden Hat Shop

Lots of lovely new hats for the Fall have just been received at Dolly Varden and they are very charming. Felt will be much worn this Fall, but even more useful at this time of year are the smart little hats in black stitched silk, satin or crepe-de-chine. These have low crowns and sailor brims and are extremely becoming, quite the prettiest hats in fact we have had for several months. The brim has a straight edge but the hat is worn just slightly tilted at an angle to suit each individual wearer. Some have a touch of white otbers have fascinating chromium buckles or pins and one and all are the last word in "chic."

A number of dainty felts in many different colours are also on view, and blue seems to be a popular colour at the moment.

Miss Naylor Importer of Dresses

A shipment of most intriguing Autumn Fashions has just arrived and Miss Naylor shewed me some of the very latest and smartest styles when I looked in the other day. The vogue for a dainty dress of printed silk or crepe with a bewitching little coat to match is going to make a big appeal this Autumn, and the suits I saw in this style are really adorble. The colourings are admirable and range from bronze to burnt-umber, copper, and pale-fawn or beign. There are also some delicate grays and white-and-navy mixtures. The patterns employed are very unusual and have a rather Russian effect and are definitely "slimming."

While Swagger-length coats will undoubtedly hold their own this Autumn I feel convinced that these medium-length coats will make a wide appeal as they have the effect of making the wearer appear slender and elegant and are specially becoming to the girl who is not tall. These New suits are Not expensive, for while they can be bought in very rich material from seventy dollars there are many charming silk suits on sale in lovely styles and colocrs for only forty five dollars.

HAVING A GOOD TIME

A Problem The Modern Girl Must Face

In this frank article Mr. F. G. H. Salusbury puts before his readers a summary of some of the difficulties which beset the path of the girl of 1933.

In particular the problem of "The Boy-Friend!"

He asks if they have lost all ability to appreciate the steadfast things of life . . .

She may want to be a wife and a Mother, but she does not seem to secure a husband. In plain words—men like her as a friend but do not desire to marry her. She is the Bachelor Girl,—the "young maid" of to-day.

The old maid of the past was a joke—if an extremely dreary one. The "young maid" is something very close to tragedy.

There are many thousands of girls who never can get married because women outnumber men in this country; but the girl of whom I am thinking has no shortage of admirers, or, as she calls them, boy-friends.

It is an expression which hits them off to a nicety in one way, but which flatters them grossly in another; for no real friend would behave as these dashing boys do.

"Good Time"

The great war, from which all our problems seem to date, was responsible for a universal desire to cast off respectability. It was a natural revulsion from the burdens we had all endured, but it infected the next generation who never directly bore these burdens. And with this irresponsibility came a queer distortion of values.

Among them is the "good time."

We have become so determined to enjoy ourselves in every way, and not to be bored for a moment, that we have practically lost our ability to appreciate the blessings of the steadfast things in life.

Worth Winning

Chief of these is marriage; and by marriage I mean not a series of fatuous flights to the divorce court, but a partnership which will run nature's normal course from passionate to serene love.

When fiddles could be bought for eighteenpence, and there was no disillusionment over the hills and far away, young people shook hands where now they kiss. The word "chivalry" was understood by a great many more young men than appreciate it to-day. A man had definitely to court a girl's favour.

It may all have been very repressive and bad for our elders, but it did produce marriages. It did make the girl seem worth winning.

The girl now is just as well worth winning as her aunt was. That is why I called her a tragedy. She becomes even more tragic when you reflect that she has herself largely encouraged the casual treatment—almost the lack of respect—which she receives at the hands of her boy-friends.

What She Fears

But what can she do? If she stands on her dignity—she is in danger of standing alone. Loneliness is her bogey. How can she make young men take her seriously?

The kisses which are so readily exchanged are about as meaningless as the word "darling," which used once to be breathed in a sort of ecstasy. They may suffice to provide one moment with a thrill, but they have long since ceased to express all but the shallower kinds of emotion.

Indeed, in the boy-friend's estimation, they have become a debased currency in which the girl-friend of however short an acquaintance pays for an evening's entertainment.

Here is another aspect of the problem. If the girl refuses to pay she runs the risk of being left alone, and it is only by continuous exploration that she can hope to find the right man. Let us suppose that, having jollied her way along on these lines, she does find a man who move her profoundly.

How can she hold him?

The fashion for pointless flirtation is extremely infectious.

An inclination towards seriousness is only too likely to head him off. In a desperate attempt to keep him she indulges his lightheartedness to the full, while hoping that he, too, will become serious.

The odds against this happening are incalculably greater than they used to be.

One reason is that the young man is outrageously spoiled by girls who are as empty-headed as himself, and who have still to learn wisdom.

The Selfish Male

Another is that the contemporary male is less willing to make sacrifices than the female, and, in the surrender of his bachelorhood, with its obvious material advantages over marriage—which he does not understand—he can see little but sacrifice.

A truth which seems to have been generally forgotten is that sincere emotion is bred not from licence but from restraint. This is most unpalatable to pseudo-psychologists, gut it remains.

It is also unpalatable that restraint is not always harmful—rather the reverse. With absence of restraint go the reserves of feeling which can transform flirtation into love.

However, any discussion of this problem must move at present in a circle. Girls can be advised to behave seriously, but they will reply—and with reason—that if they do so they are in danger of heading off the boy-friends among whom their possible husbands exist.

She Pays

In the same breath they will inform you that their boy-friends all seem so silly. "I would like," is their great cry, "to marry a man of about thirty."

And where are these men? Most of them are already married.

Where, then, is the solution? Perhaps — almost certainly — in time. We are experiencing now the most chaotic backwash from the greatest eplosion in history.

True to tradition, women are the chief sufferers.

F. G. H. Salusbury.

ATHLETICS AND MOTHERHOOD

Mr. D. Ward Cutler, Deputy Director of the Rothamsted Experimental Station, speaking at the British Social Hygiene Council's Summer School at Oxford yesterday, said that the fertility rate of the professional man and the middle classes—really the best classes—was just over two children per family, and it was well known that, to ensure the continuance of a particular stock, there ought to be at least four.

Dr. Lilian Jeffries, discussing the effects of athletics on motherhood, said it was a known fact that acrobats and ballet dancers, especially when they started their strenuous training at an early age, very seldom had children when they married.

WISE KNOWLEDGE FOR CHILDREN

The suggestion that a wise teaching of the details of sex and the sex function might with advantage be included in the general teaching of hygiene was made at the World Federation of Education Association Conference in Dublin yesterday by Dr. John F. Davidson, County Medical Officer of Health, Suffolk, when dealing with the secondary school child and the senior elementary school child.

Knowledge and understanding would obviate many of the mental and physical defects of adolescence, and prove of inestimable value to the future ordering of lives and conduct.

"The confusion of ignorance with virtue is a sad reflection on our

Mrs. Fernley-Whittingstall the famous English tennis-player caused a sensation when she appeared in this costume at a big tennis party this Summer.

Already the style has been followed by many well-known English women, and we product that soon this sensible and discreet fashion will be followed by every woman of taste then we shall have no more of the ugly and unpleasing photos taken of our tennis stars during strennous tournament play, at Wimbledon,—or anywhere. —Else.

educational and medical service," he said. "Knowledge without understanding is one other grave sequel to the lack of this instruction."

A HOLIDAY ON HORSEBACK

They Do It In England Why Not Here?

How can we plan a short holiday so as to ensure complete change of scene, diet, amusement and life generally; a holiday that will be peaceful, of interest; free from trains, high-roads, rush, noise, crowds, and dust, yet avoiding boredom and stagnation?

There are only two way by which we can achieve all this; we must adopt either the very newest or the very oldest methods of travel—and og by air or on horseback. The former, while excellent for a business or rush journey, is still too expensive for the average family to spend a summer holiday in the air. Freedom

But if you and other members of your family are keen on riding, consider well the joys of a riding holiday.

You will combine the maximum of fresh air and gentle (not exhausting) exercise, with escape from the shackles of conventional society, and the delicious sense of freedom this entails. You will travel over downs and moors, by narrow lanes and woodland paths, which you coull have traversed in no other way; andl you will see the wild things of woods and fields in their natural haunts in closer proximity than you could otherwise have encountered them.

All the Difference.

Perhaps, as you wend your way by some quiet secluded woodland, you may catch sight of a fox or badger, or—if you are riding across West-country moors — you may even se the wild red deer, and thrill at your first glimpse of the Monarch of the Moor in all the splendour of his pride and grace.

In these days, when so many people are taking up riding, it is an easy matter to hire horses and ponies suitable to your requirements, and if you arrange that your daily journey ends at some small country town or comfortable farmstead there should be no difficulty in securing suitable accomodation for yourselves and your mounts.

But the wise woman will leave the planning of itinerary and commissariat to the male members of the party, knowing that the later always pride themselves on being masters of organisation!

She will content herself with seeing that each member of the party takes a change of underclothing, and an extra jersey or sweater for cold, wet days, and that these are packed in waterproof holsters to hang on the saddle.

She will also provide herself unostentatiously with certain important medicaments which the mere male mind is apt to overlook—trifles that take up little room, but may make all the difference to comfort and health; small phials of aspirin and iodine, a tube of one of those aseptic oils that ward off, or alleviate, the stings of insects, strong needle and tread, and a good knife with corkscrew and hoof-pick.

But if we are to enjoy a riding holiday we must be prepared to face adversity in some small measure, and to take the rough with the smooth. However carefuly you have planned something may go wrong. Perhaps the food will be unappetising, the beds hard, or the baths cold! One of the party may tall ill, a horse go lame, or the weather decide to do its worst, and the heavens open in incessant downpour.

Never mind! Accept discomfort in the true holiday spirt, and refuse to have your enthusiasm quenched, no matter what difficulties arise, remembering that as Robert Louis Stevenson has told us: "It is a better thing to travel hopefully than to arrive."

Surely of nothing can this be said more truthfully than of a riding holiday.

NOVELTIES

Striking colour contrasts are popular. A bright green and vivid blue crepe dance frock worn by Lady Pamela Smith. The other day at Covent Garden and Mauve orchids at the waist of Lady Londonderry's turquoise blue evening gown.

A two-feet-long velvet pussycat bow at one side of the neck-line of Adrienne Ames' light evening coat. Black velvet sleeves, very bunched-up to match the bow.

One short sleeve and one plain narrow shoulder strap on a satin evening dress is a new idea.

A necklace of thick white cord and silver metal, worn with a severely cut black woollen day dress cooks smart and unusual.

WASHING SHANTUNG SILK

Great care should be taken when washing and ironing Shantung silk, as if treated in the wrong manner it becomes hard and papery and has a mottled appearance. It should be washed in warm water and in a lather of soap flakes, and on no account should soap be rubbed onto the material itself. If the colour becomes too light with washing it can be restored by rinsing the silk in water coloured with a little tea. It should not be wrung out but should be hung out to dry in the shade. When it is bone dry it can be ironed on the wrong side with a moderately hot iron.

STRANGE STOCKINGS

In the West-End last month an exhibition of "Hose Through the Ages" attracted many visitors who spent an interesting and somewhat hilarious afternoon viewing the

The chief curiosity was comparatively recent, being dated 1856, and bearing its original card—"Suitable for Delicate Young Persons." This pair had feet of double thickness. Other examples were white with black stripes (1800), yellow with blue rings (1815), and finally a curiously crude manufacture reputed to dated back t 1789. Cheaply produced, this exhibit was fashioned in the form of narrow woollen bags which the wearer's limbs were to shape in due course

"IT'S GREAT TO BE ALIVE"

Tale Of "The Last Men In The World"

A world with only one man is the theme of "It's Great To Be Alive," the Fox musical comedy which launches Raul Roulien as a star on the American screen, and comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday next. The picture, the cast of which includes a thousand of Hollywood's most beautiful girls, depicts the world in 1938, after masculitis has swept the globe clear of man—with the single exception of Raul Roulien, who has been living as a castaway on a desert island. How this lone young man meets and copes with the situation is said to provide some of the picture's most interesting and colourful action.

Featured with Roulien are Gloria Stuart, Edna May Oliver, Herbert Mundin, Dorothy Burgess, Joan Marsh and Emma Dunn. Alfred Werker, who made "Rackety Rax" and "Bachelor's Affairs" directed "It's Great To Be Alive."

"NO OTHER WOMAN"

Tale Of A "Steel" Town Struggle

The man of brawn becomes the man of brains and then, with success, riches and fame becomes just a fool over a woman who twists him around her crooked little finger. This in spite of the fact that he had once vowed that there could be "no other woman" than his wife!

"No Other Woman" is the apt title of the RKO-Radio Picture coming to the Central Theatre tomorrow with Irene Dunne playing the wife, Charles Bickford the husband, Gwili Andre the enchantress and Eric Linden the young inventor whose formula made possible their fame and fortune.

Against the glare and the heat of great steel furnaces is introduced Jim Stanley, who feels like a god because he is a strong fellow who makes steel and draws the biggest pay envelope. Jim loves Anna, though he thinks she has some hi-faluting notions that she'll get rid of once she marries him.

To begin with, Anna hates steel towns—hates Jim for his pride in his sweaty job—declares she will never marry a steel worker—but declares in vain. Her love for him—his attraction for her—is too great, and they are married. It's a true steel town wedding with Anna's wedding gifts being paper money pinned to her dress.

Determined to get herself and Jim out of steel town, she uses money to start a boarding house. In two years she has worked and scrimped so much that Jim is becoming quarrelsome on the subject. One night he goes off on a drunk and is so repentant that he consents to their savings being used to organize a company for the marketing of a dye formula invented by Joe, an ambitious young Slav whose success is largely due to the encouragement Anna gave him. Anna always stood behind anyone who was ambitious to get ahead—to get out away from the grime of the steel town and see lovely things, meet nice people.

Jim proves to be as clever a business man as he was a steel worker, and prospers, but he promptly falls into the clutches of a woman who is determined to get him away from Anna and marry him herself. Jim says he can never leave his son—never give Anna such an unfair deal. Yet one day finds man and wife in court in a sensational divorce scandal with Jim making amazing accusations—and Anna making a startling confession!

"No Other Woman" is told from the viewpoint of modern morals. It is powerful and sincere. J. Walter Ruben directed from the screen play by Wanda Tuchock and Bernard Schubert. The cast, beside its four principals, includes Buster Miles, Leila Bennett, Christian Rub, J. Carroll Naish and others.

A POWERFUL STORY

The Billion Dollar Scandal

"The Billion Dollar Scandal" now showing at the Queen's Theatre, is a story, as its title suggests, of the exposure of a nation-wide swindle. It tells of an ex-gaolbird who suddenly becomes the man of the hour and the "saviour of 120 millions" when he tells, through the columns of a newspaper, the details of a gigantic swindle, the plotting of which he overheard in his gym class for business men.

The story begins in a penitentiary, where Fingers, (Robert Armstrong) a masseur, Ratsy (James Gleason), a pickpocket and the Kid (Warren Hymer) an ex-champion welterweight, are completing terms.

Paroled at the same time, the three get together to prepare the Kid for a comeback. First, however, they pick up three girls including Anna (Olga Baclanova) who sticks to Fingers, and celebrate. They somewhat overdid their celebration, however, and on the way home they wreck a car belonging to Masterson (Frank Morgan) a millionaire banker. Masterson, badly hurt, is revived by Fingers' skill, and is so impressed by it that he offers Fingers a job as his personal trainer.

The rich man talk freely before Fingers, thinking he is too dumb to know what its all about. He picks up the tips and plays the market, making himself and his pals rich. His principal object, however, is to set his younger brother (Frank Albertson) upon business. But the brother falls in love with Masterson's daughter (Constance Cummings) and angered at the turn of affairs, Masterson breaks Fingers, in order to get rid of his brother.

At the invitation of Griswod (Irving Pichel), a newspaper editor, Fingers talks and what he has to say results in the suicide of three of the millionaires involved, and the place free of all of them.

"DANGEROUSLY YOURS"

Lady Detective And Gentleman Crook

What happens when a charming young lady detective sets out to ensnare a suave gentleman crooks is the central theme of "Dangerously Yours," new Fox production which had its first showing at the King's theatre to-day.

Warner Baxter is starred in the role of the society thief and the beautiful Mirian Jordan, recent recruit from the Broadway and London stage, has the part of the girl sleuth employed by an insurance company to protect the jewels of its clients.

Herbert Mundin, popular comedian, as Baxter's partner in crime, contributes greatly to the hilarity of this fast-moving comedy drama. Other important roles are beautifully handled by Florence Roberts, Florence Eldriage, Nella Walker, Mischa Auer, Arthur Hoyt, Will Davidson, and Tyrell Davis.

The screen play is the work of Horace Jackson who adapted the popular novel of the same title by Paul Hervey Fox, Frank Tuttle's direction is without a flaw. He keeps his picture moving at all times, and maintains a snappy tempo.

"Dangerously Yours" is certain to give you a pleasant evening at the theatre.

"UP FOR THE DERBY"

Real Scenes Taken From Epsom Down

Sydney Howard topping the bill at the Central Theatre in a comedy with a racing flavour and showing most aptly during the week of the great race of the year. "Up for the Derby."

Last year's Derby was specially photographed and is prominently shown in this excellent comedy, adding considerably to its interest.

Appropriately enough the Derby was won by that other great comedian, Tom Walls, with his horse April Fifth.

Sydney Howard gives a really great comedy performance in this picture, and makes the most of the many excellent comedy situations. You will see him as a punter mistaken by an angry mob for a welshing bookie; secreting himself on the Epsom Downs to time a race-horse with a loud alarm clock; dancing sedately in a fashionable night-club with the tail of his dress clothes torn off and with moth balls scattering on the floor, and at the end of the film, frock-coated and grey hatted, proudly astride his Derby winner.

The film is joyous entertainment, so besides picking your own favorite for the Derby you can safely pick this as a laughter certi

419 is the number of a room in an emergency hospital, and the girl is found beaten up by gangsters in the street. The hospital's star doctor sets out to track down her assailant, and—isn't that a surprise?—gets him. ECHOES OF 1858

64.—Civil and Military Authorities At Loggerheads

DECEMBER 6, 1858.

Our readers are of course aware that a fire broke out yesterday morning at nine, either at Hinnam's shop or next to it—that the fire engines were useless as usual from want of water—that by immense exertions of the sailors of the fleet, houses in the vicinity were pulled down, and the limits of the devouring element circumscribed—that Messrs. Schaeffer & Co.'s establishment was entirely burnt, and that the Oriental Bank had a most miraculous escape, also attributable to that dauntless intrepidity, physical force, and rare discipline, which are the characteristics of the sailors in our navy.

Now let us see what our sapient authorities did. The Lieut. Governor ordered Captain Twiss of the artillery to bring down two heavy guns to blow down Messrs. Schaeffer and Co.'s house with round shot. When they came, the Captain asked for orders (written of course) the Lieut. Governor saw responsibility in perspective; round shot at his feet, thought the two synonymous, and as Jack would say, hauled off. Major Mann, Commanding the artillery, was applied to, and refused of course to sanction such folly.

Certainly it seems to us that if Captain Twiss had not been such a steady efficient officer, he would have fallen into the Lieut. Governor's views. Had he done so, certainly one ship at least would have been hulled every shot, and any quantity of lives lost.

DECEMBER 10, 1858.

Our nebulous contemporary, in condemning our "unmannerly attack" on the Acting Governor Caine, for desiring Captain Twiss to fire round shot into Messrs. Schaeffer and Co.'s house, with a view to destroy it when on fire, recommends us to go on the parade ground and we "may then see that it is possible to load a piece with just so much powder as shall send a ball a certain length and no further."

The pieces brought down on Sunday were guns, not mortars—even had they been mortars however, they could not have been adapted to a fifteen or twenty yard range, unless they had been elevated almost to the zenith, in which case we would have suggested the prudence of standing from under. The practice on the parade ground that was running in Bellico's head, was clearly cricket. It is however refreshing to see that he can agree with Colonel Caine on some point, and a pretty mess they would have made of it, if the singular coincidence of their wits jumping had set the artillery a-going. The Colonel must have been using abusive language towards our contemporary, we think, and rashly passing the limit beyond which forbearance ceases to be a virtue, caused Bellico to embrace him and asked forgiveness, or at least forgetfulness, for the little misunderstanding there has been between them the last ten or twenty years. Nay, but we are joking? Did not Bellico so do to the grinder of the hurdy when he rattled past the limit of forbearance as if it had been a scare crow? And what can he mean by accusing us of having made a most unmannerly attack (his very words) on Colonel Caine? Is no one to find fault with the discreet Colonel but himself, or have they fraternized and embraced? If the latter we hope the sapient couple will demonstrate "Bellico's short range" at an early day on the Parade Ground.

THE FUTURE OF CHINESE TURKESTAN

CEASELESS SOVIET INTRIGUES

Land Of Rich Soil And Oil Deposits

Late last spring a minor revolution occurred on the plains of Chinese Central Asia. Led by the Moslems, who comprise an overwhelming majority of the population, the 2,000,000 residents of Sinkiang, the westernmost province of China, revolted against the Nanking Government. They drove the Chinese governor-general, with all his officials, from the province, and set up a government of their own, with a Moslem general, who is friendly to the Soviet Union, at its head.

Although for all practical purposes Sinkiang has seceded from China, Nanking will not yet admit its loss and is negotiating with the rebel leaders for the installation of a new Chinese administration. It is thought, however, that the leaders of the revolt are under the influence of Soviet Russia, whose territory parallels the western boundary of Sinkiang, and there is a strong probability that Sinkiang may either join the Soviet Union or submit to a protectorate of the sort that Russia exercises over Outer Mongolia.

If the Chinese are successful in their negotiations with the Sinkiang rebels, another crisis in Sino-Russian affairs will have passed—and a day of reckoning will have been deferred. But if Chinese Turkestan—as Sinkiang is popularly known—adheres to the Soviet Union, the world will see the climax to a drama which has been running a quiet course for eight years. And the end will not yet be in sight. The denouement of the play may have something to do with how far China herself will go on the road to Communism.

A Strategic Point.

After having conquered and lost it a half dozen times since the first century B.C., China annexed Sinkiang conclusively in 1877. The province is a strategic point in Asia, both geographically and economically. Its 400,000 square miles of towering mountains and fertile valleys, barren deserts and fresh oases, have long been a buffer between Russian and Chinese. And it contains rich deposits of copper, oil, jade and gold, which will add heavily to the wealth of any country which exploits them systematically.

China's management of them thus far has been haphazard and relatively unproductive. The assaults of Chinese capitalists upon deposits of red, black and green copper so rich that pure copper is produced at one smelting, have been mere scratchings, since the Chinese do not know how to carry a shaft to any depth. Ignorant of boring and refining chemicals, they have merely skimmed the surface of the rich "Ferghana series" of oil-bearing strata which lies across the province from east to west. Agriculture, of which cotton is the chief product, meagerly realizes the possibilities of the rich soil, since the irrigation necessary to all cultivated land in this region is carried on by a system of primitive wells.

Badly Managed Wealth.

Since 1925, when they concluded a formal trade treaty with Sinkiang, the Soviets have viewed its great and badly managed wealth with covetous eyes. Along the 1300-mile frontier which separates Russian Turkestan from Chinese, they are carrying forward ambitious projects in scientific cotton cultivation and building gigantic industrial combinats such as the one now under construction on the shores of Lake Balkash. To them, expansion across the Ili River into the rich country beyond seems inevitable.

Their ambitions have long been fed by sharp political unrest in Sinkiang. Although theoretically the equal of the other seventeen provinces of China, Chinese Turkestan has always bowed to the tradition of an autocratic governor-general. The reputation of the recently deposed Gen. Chin Shu jen for being incompetent and rapacious was known to Nanking, but so great are the powers of the governor-general once he is ensconced in the province, due partly to its remoteness and partly to the traditions of the office, that it was helpless to recall him.

The Chinese residents of Sinkiang are a mere handful of government officials, traders and colonists. But from the governor-general down, they have always conducted themselves as a ruling race. In the past, Chinese administration has kept the natives contented in their subjugation by an active concern for their prosperity. Jobs were provided for

PIECE GOODS CLAIM

Late Delivery and Bad Quality Alleged

The hearing was continued yesterday before the Acting Chief Justice (Mr. J. R. Wood), of the claim for $1,910.76 by David Sassoon and Co., Ltd., against the Yan On Firm.

Continuing his evidence Lo Chung Ming, managing partner of defendant firm, alleged that after he had returned to the plaintiffs one of their arrival notes, it was sent back to him with the date altered.

"That is the 'forgery,'" said Mr. H. G. Sheldon representing claimant.

The claim is for breach of contract by non-acceptance and non-payment of goods ordered in 1931. Plaintiffs eventually auctioned the goods and the amount claimed is the difference between the contract and the auction price plus interest and commission.

Mr. D. McNeill for defendants submitted that his clients had already paid for some of the goods which, however had not been delivered. The money he alleged, had been put through another account.

Mr. Lo in the course of his evidence said he informed the broker that he would not accept the goods because of their inferior quality and late arrival, and he was informed that there had been a number of similar complaints.

Cross-examined by Mr. Sheldon witness denied that his version of conversations with Mr. Compton and Mr. Wong, were "absolutely false."

A special effort was made in the afternoon to finish the case as Mr. Sheldon is leaving the Colony to-day for a short holiday. The Court Sat up till 5.15 p.m. when the evidence for the defence was completed.

Mr. Sheldon then indicated that in view of the nature of the evidence for the defence he would like to apply for leave to call Mr. A. H. Compton and Mr. Wong. Mr. Sheldon said that Mr. Leo D'Almada, junior, was being instructed by Mr. MacKenlay to address the Court.

His Lordship: What time are you going?

Mr. Sheldon: At noon, my Lord.

Could we leave the case till 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Mr. Sheldon: I am afraid, I can't.

The case was then adjourned until Saturday morning at 10 a.m

everyone, and food and clothing were kept cheap. Since 1926, however, when the governor-general who developed it was assassinated, this policy has been on the wane. The working day for native labour is now fixed by the individual

THE COLONY'S WATER SUPPLY

FURTHER RESTRICTIONS NECESSARY

Island Reservoirs Badly Deplated

Starting from to-morrow Saturday, further restrictions of the hours of water supply are to be enforced on the Island. According to an official notification.

In the Peak District, the following hours will apply:—

5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

In other districts, the hours of supply will be from 6 a.m. to 9 a.m.

In Kowloon the present 10 hours supply will be maintained for the present.

STATE OF THE RESERVOIRS

Statistics of the Colony's Water Supply issued by the P.W.D. for September 1st bear out this warning and unless the present drought is followed by very heavy rainfall the Colony will be forced to face drastic reductions in the daily supply, if the dry season is to be safely negotiated.

The Island reservoirs show a total of 1,494 million gallons, compared with 2,289 at the same time last year when the reservoirs were full.

Consumption last month, when a full supply was given up to the 25th, a 10 hour supply being substituted, totalled 403.78 million gallons, or 33.7 gallons per head per day. A supply of 72.5 m.g. was received from the Mainland.

The biggest reservoir, Tytam Tuk, is nearly half empty, 797 m.g. against a 1,420 capacity, while Wong Nei Chong and Pokfulam are 19 feet below overflow and Aberdeen 11 feet below overflow.

Over in the Mainland the reservoirs are still full, several of the larger streams still being in flood, while the maximum is also being drawn from the Shingmun conduit of about 2½ m.g. per diem.

At last month's rate of expenditure the Island reservoirs have enough water to last 112 days or till just before Christmas! Even with the Shingmun supply the end of January would see the reservoirs dry!

The Mainland reservoirs, at the August rate of expenditure would hold out for about three months, expenditure having been 227 m.g. and storage 662 m.g.

Details of Storage and Water levels on September 1st, as supplied by the P.W.D. are as follow:—

Sher Mohamed, an Indian watchman who is shortly to go back to India on retirement, was the complainant in a case before Mr. Schofield yesterday in which four other Indians are charged in connection with the theft of $500 in Hongkong Bank notes, a ten rupee note and clothing to the value of $150.

The defendants are Wali Dad, Mohamed Asharf, Sahib Dad and Sakander Khan. The first three are charged with larceny and receiving, while the fourth is only charged with receiving.

Mr. A. el Arculli appeared for the fourth defendant, while Mr. Horace Lo was for the others.

In outlining he case, Detective-Sergeant Fitches said that the complainant was a watchman employed by the Hongkong Tramways, and lived at their depot. He had a brass bound box containing clothing and other property which he left at No. 10, Star Street, 3rd. floor, where the first, second and third defendants lived. The complainant was shortly due to proceed back to India on retirement. In addition to the clothing, $500 in Hongkong Bank notes and a ten rupee note were in the box.

The house boy employed by the defendants would say that on August 27 at 12.30 p.m. the only persons beside himself on the premises were the first and third defendants. About that time they wrote a letter, and gave it to him to deliver to a watchman at the Kowloon Docks. This letter mentioned a key, but, actually was of no importance, as it was merely to get him away from the premises.

The Box Missing

When the boy returned about 1.30 p.m. neither of the defendants were there, and he found the box missing. The following morning he reported the matter to the complainant, and asked him whether he had removed the box. The complainant said he had not, and reported the matter.

An Indian watchman, who lives on the adjoining floor told the police that he had occasion to go up to this floor, and met the second defendant coming down the stairs, with four coolies who were carrying the box. He did not attach any importance to the incident. The second defendant had denied taking the box, and put the blame on some others.

Two Chinese detectives were sent out to find the coolies, and they succeeded in tracing two of them. At the station those coolies pointed out the first and second defendants as the persons who had instructed them to take the box. The box was taken to No. 1, Minden Road, Tsimshatsui, where the fourth defendant was employed as a watchman, and the box was left in the garden. Later, it was found in the basement occupied by the fourth defendant.

The locks had been forced, and $271 was missing. The sum of $229 and the ten rupee note which placed in a secret drawer were intact.

The first witness called was the Indian interpreter who was on duty in the charge room of No. 2 Police Station at the time the defendants were charged. This witness produced the statements, and after he had complete his evidence, Sergt. Fitches went into the box where he gave evidence bearing out his opening remarks.

Mr. Lo submittee that the case against the second defendant was very flimsy and he therefore asked his Worship to discharge the man. Mr. Schofield, however, disagreed.

Mr. Arculli then submitted that there was no evidence against the fourth defendant. "He is charged with receiving stolen property," said Mr. Arculli, "knowing" that the same had been stolen."

Continuing, counsel said the onus was on the prosecution to prove that the defendant did in fact know the box had been stolen, and since there was no evidence whatever on this point, he asked that the defendant be discharged.

The magistrate said he did not agree and after further evidence had been taken, hearing was adjourned until Friday, 15th inst. at 2.30 p.m.

Well Described

Gladys: "Listen, Mabel. This is what my boy says in his letter: 'Darling, I think of you all day—your naturally waved hair, your brownish-gray eyes, your slightly prominent cheekbones, your 24-inch waist—'"

Mabel: "Well, that's a queer sort of love letter!"

Gladys: "Oh, didn't you know? Bob writes those descriptions of people for the police."—Fliegende Blatter.

A JOURNEY THROUGH HAINAN ISLAND

MOTOR ROADS REPLACING BOAT TRAVEL

Concrete Bridge—And Some Wooden Ones

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Kachek, August 31st.

Vang-neng is an interesting part of Hainan Island. It is a district lying along the east coast but south of Kheng-dong and Loh-hoe districts It suffered worse perhaps than any other part of Hainan in the communist troubles of a few years past, and also in the recent typhoon. A trip through the coastal plain offers some pleasant possibilities, and in the interior there are fascinating features here and there—the overshot water wheels of Hoe-fioliang, pounding the fragrant incense so much prized all over China, the approach to the Miao country, and the rugged foothills of the western part. The district city is situated well to the southern part of the district, and not directly on the coast, the main market in the northern part is No-lak, rather an enterprising town even though not large. In former years the accepted approach to Vang-neng was by boat and road. The traveller took a small boat at the Kachek lower wharf on the evening of a market day, went down river to Bakia, around a projecting delta and up another river to Liang-kun, usually arriving there before daylight. Then overland by a sandy trail that led to No-lak, Lak-lin mountains and the rolling foothills on one side, shifting sand dunes between the traveller and the sea on the other, and occasional beautiful glimpses of the water from the higher knolls.

We Go by Car

Now times have changed and we go by car. Passengers from Kachek must needs cross the Kachek river by ferry at the lower wharf. If the river is not too high cars come across and gather up fares and freight in the market. The ferry scow is propelled by manpower only and can't be used against too swift a current, and the flat sandy bank on the far side makes the water far too shallow for the scow if the river has merely risen sufficiently to flood the low bank a little. When water is high passengers and freight are taken across in the regular small boats and take cars from the small roadside inn on the far bank. It is considered ten po or thirty miles from Kachek to No-lak and foreign cars register thirty-two miles. The regular fare is $2.50. Certain cars make only the Vang-neng run, but any market car will go if loaded, and many cars come through from Hoihow and go on directly to the south without stopping.

A Ten Span Bridge and some others

The road winds down toward Liang-kun, following the upland that divides the wide-stretching rice plains around Loh-hoe district city from the smaller rice plains of Ziting-kiang. The Loh-how pagoda stands out plainly in the distance. Forts or watchtowers are numerous, many of them now unoccupied and many showing traces of typhoon damage. Tong-zoang market is the principal town between Kachek and Liang-kun. At this latter place a very good concrete bridge has recently been completed, ten spans long and wide enough for two cars to cross. Some Chinese say it cost $300,000, silver, but many consider that too high a figure and so far I have not been able to secure accurate informations. As the road nears No-lak a spur leads into the market, a mile or so from the main road, which continues on to Vang-neng district city, fifteen miles further south. This is also the road on down to Leng-tui. The chaffeur told me that on the road to Leng-tui a high hill had been deeply cut to make the auto road, and that during the typhoon the cut was so filled with dirt from a landslide and with fallen trees that it would take two months to open it again.

The most noticeable thing about this road is the bridges. Two are very good—the Liang-kun one mentioned above and one just outside Vang-neng city. Several are fairly good concrete culverts, wide enough for comfort. One new one is a memorial put up by South Seas Chinese and has the oldfashioned canal bridge arch in the center—very pretty, but not the most desirable form for motor traffic. Two or three others are good enough concrete bridges but barely wide enough for one car, with only three or four inch rounded shoulders for railings, and approached from curves, so that unless great care is taken tires are scraped as cars go on to the bridge. Some bridges are still only planks laid across stringers, and wired in position, with or without planks laid to mark the wheeltracks, and these bridges rattle most lugubriously as cars cross. And one bridge is made of six coconut logs, three for each wheel track, and almost far enough apart now to let the wheels down between them. Even the blasé native chaffeurs go carefully over some of these makeshifts. There is one ferry between No-lak and Vang-neng, the river and scow being fairly safe but the approach very steep. There is however this much to be said for that lower stretch of road—there are big signs up, in red and black Chinese characters, warning 'Danger—Curve—Drive Slowly'.

ARMY'S NEW DRESS

Further Changes Foreshadowed

The 2nd Battalion The Queen's Royal Regiment, commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel G. J. Giffard, has attracted more than ordinary interest in the manoeuvring area of Aldershot troops.

The Queen's was one of the two Battalions—the other is at Catterick (Yorkshire)—selected to test the suitability of the experimental uniform designed for use on the battlefield.

A section of men of The Queen's wearing the "reformed" dress are scattered about the column on the march and they do not work together when manoeuvring. In addition to the "deerstalker," the Field Service cap, a "reject" of about 30 years ago, is also being "tried out."

Experiments so far have proved that modifications are necessary before the dress can be said to be generally recommended.

The Field Service cap, the writer learns, has few friends, while the "deerstalker" does not, in the opinion of many, come up to expectations. In some quarters it is held to be too far removed from the traditional military type of headdress and lacks smartness. This, it is held, must count for something even in dress intended only for field training and war.

Uncomfortable

Another school, while not wholly condemning this type of cap, asserts that it is not so comfortable to wear as its appearance would lead one to suppose. The inside make-up chafes the forehead. In other details, too, changes are foreshadowed.

The leg covering is also criticised. There is a consensus of opinion that both in dress and equipment changes must come, and that while the tests applied to the new training dress and equipment have proved valuable, it will be some considerable time before a definite decision can be reached as to what will best serve the soldier as a war dress.

Meanwhile interesting experiments are proceeding with a view to reducing the personal baggage of the soldier when he goes to war. Mechanical transport is said to be the most powerful ally in this field of endeavour.

SUMPTUOUS JEWELLERY

Mummy of Rich Woman of 500 Years Ago

The mummy of a woman has been dug up in the Chinese city in Shanghai. It is estimated to be at least 500 years old.

A number of precious stones and many gold and silver ornaments of the Ming period were found with the body, which was clothed in the costume of a wealthy woman of the Ming dynasty.

Its splendour was wonderfully preserved, but when the coffin was opened the body and garments turned black.

Oh-Oh!

Teacher: "I should like you all to take more pride in your personal appearance. Now, Johnny, how many collars do you wear a week?"

Johnny: "Please, teacher, do you mean how many weeks do I wear a collar?"

CRICKET AND THE EMPIRE

Except for a few festival matches, which no one takes very seriously, the brief cricket season in England has ended. Yorkshire are again champions, and their predominance was such that their leadership was never seriously threatened. "Men may come, and men may go," but Yorkshire cricketers go on for ever. They have won the county cricket championship seventeen times, out of thirty-seven and there has hardly been a year when they have not been well in the running. The season has been enlivened by the visit of the West Indian team, a sporting side, of good county standard, but unequal to the task of competing against the full strength British teams pitted against them on three occasions. A similar opinion has been passed on the very welcome visitors from India and New Zealand, and the suggestion made that while fixtures against all-England sides might be arranged, the full-strength opposition, and the deep formality, associated with a Test Match might be foregone. That is a matter as much for the visitors as their hosts to decide, and, as soon as an Overseas team feels its feet in first class cricket the next move is to ask for a Test Match. The British public enjoys these games, competition is keen enough among cricketers to get into the side, and, win, lose or draw, to the opposing players the honour of being pitted against England's full strength is highly prized. This winter a very strong M.C.C. team goes to India, and practically every British summer now sees a tourist team from overseas, and every winter an English side in one or other part of the Empire.

It is unfortunately still a debateable point whether athletic contests between countries of equal strength do not do more harm than good. The will to win tends to dominate good sportsmanship and the spectacular attraction is diminished. This is particularly the case with regard to cricket, and Anglo-Australian Test Matches have become the most tedious of all games, except, possibly, the dour struggles between Yorkshire and Lancashire. Despite the unhappy incidents of last winter the Australians are to visit England next year. Since the War the contests between England and Australia have developed along inevitable lines. Twelve years ago a super-efficient side under Warwick Armstrong found English cricket in the depths of depression. Some said it was due to the war dislocation, but it is difficult to see why Australia recovered while England did not. "Shock tactics" were used by two fast bowlers of exceptional calibre, and admiration was mingled with a good deal of bitterness. England for some ten years suffered a series of defeats, under somewhat happy-go-lucky captains, and though A. P. F. Chapman's team snatched a narrow victory in the 1929 tour, D. R. Jardine decided that only by meeting efficiency with yet more ruthless efficiency could the Australian method, copied by England, of taking no risks at the crease, and dragging out the games to six or seven days, be satisfactorily countered. The results were unpleasant and unedifying. Australian players were badly hurt and Australian crowds gave full vent to their outraged feelings. Records were searched to see what "giants of the past" had had to say, and it was clearly shown that tentative efforts at "body line bowling," were angrily suppressed notably by W. G. Grace. Moreover, J. B. Hobbs, the leading figure in British cricket today, has been unsparing in his condemnation, giving as his opinion, "someone will be killed, and then it will stop."

During the 1934 Australian Tour, Imperial cricket will be on its trial, and, no doubt will emerge triumphantly. The stonewalling cricket of the last five years will probably be eliminated by restoring the old three-day Test Match, and the withdrawal of the leading exponents of body line bowling will automatically see it end. County Cricket in England is changing. It is being professionalised, because no one can afford to devote his youth to cricket, except for payment. But it will be to the interest of a professional side to keep the game alive and popular. This means attractive and enterprising cricket, in which averages, and even results, have to take a lower place. There are dangers ahead, even in that, but no doubt the National game will surmount them.

LI YANG CHING

Relinquishes His Command

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 7.

Once the "Ludendorff" of the Kwangtung armies, General Li Yang Ching has relinquished his command of the third army and concurrently Pacification Commissioner of East Kwangtung districts.

Political intrigue is largely responsible for the general's eclipse. The third army consists of the seventh and the eighth divisions who are now in South Kiangsi in connection with the anti-Communist campaign. These two divisions will be commanded by Lieut.-General Miao Pei Nan, Chief-of-Staff of the First Group Army, who will shortly leave here for South Kiangsi to direct military operations.

The Commissionership of Pacification will be filled by General Heung Han Ping transferred from the Canton district. His position will be taken by others, and General Li Yang Ching will retire to private life.

Formerly Chief-of-Staff of the Kwangtung armies and a trusted officer of General Chen Tsai Tong, Li Yang Ching made a serious mistake by convincing the corruption and maladministration of his subordinates in his office of Commissioner of Pacification in East Kwangtung. Endowed with the rare combination of military and political leadership, General Li is a close friend of Marshal Li Chi Shen of Hong Kong and other South-west veteran Kuomintang leaders.

ON WITH THE FIGHT!

Fang Chin Wu Commended

Canton, Sept. 7.

The South-west Provinces People's Foreign Relations Association sent a telegram yesterday to General Fang Chin Wu, Commander-in-Chief of the people's anti-Japanese allied forces in Charhar, commending him for his courageous stand against the Japanese and urging him to go on with the fight.

General Soong Cheh Yuan, reinstated Chairman of the Charhar Provincial Government, is warned by the same Association not to be a tool of Chiang and Wang in outstanding Generals Fang Chin Wu and Chi Hung Chang (anti-Japanese warriors) from Charhar.

The Association also congratulated Generals Wang Teh Lin, Kung Hin Yung and Rear-Admiral Chiang Si Yuan for assuming their high military and naval post.—Central Press.

CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Reorganised By Kuomintang

Canton, Sept. 7.

The Canton City Chamber of Commerce has been reorganized by the Canton City Kuomintang, and eleven members of the executive committee were appointed. Two officials of the city Kuomintang were appointed members of the directing committee.

Reorganization of the City Chamber of Commerce is a result of the complaints lodged by various member guilds that the Chamber was not functioning as well as it should be. Hence the City Kuomintang stepped in and reshuffled the personnel of the organization.

New members will assume their posts to-morrow or early next week.—Central Press.

FOOCHOW READY

For Communist Invasion

Foochow, Sept. 7.

Lieutenant General Oong Chao Hnan, the new garrison commandant of Foochow, is erecting strong fortifications on the western outskirts of the city as precautions against the possible invasion of the Communists.

However he stated that the Reds at Shunchang have retreated to Wenan, which is further west. General Oong said that the general offensive on the Communists at Hu Lu Mountain will be started soon.

Rear Admiral Chen Chi Liang in command of two light Nanking cruisers at Foochow to-day called on General Chiang Kwang Nai, Chairman of the Fukien Provincial Government, and General Tsai Ting Kai, commanding the 19th Route Army. The subject of their discussion was the anti-Red campaign.

Owing to the Communist menace, the All-Fukien Athletic Meet which was to meet here has been cancelled.—Central Press.

Canton, September 7.—Soldiers and general public at Tayu, southern Kiangsi, will join together in an athletic meet on September 21. In addition to the usual sports items, there will be shooting contests and mountain climbing. Entries close on September 10. The meet is open only to amateurs, and three members of the Canton Athletic Association and left here for Tayu to make the necessary preparations.—Central Press.

WANG CHING WEI

To Be President Of National Government

Nanking, Sept. 7.

The reorganization of the Nanking Government will be carried out according to the decision made at the last Kuling Conference, which decided in the nature of a preliminary conference all the important issues to be formally approved by the Kuomintang Fifth National Congress.

General Chiang Kai Shek will be promoted from Chairman of the Nanking Military Commission to generalissimo of the land, sea and air forces. Mr. Wang Ching Wei will step up from the presidency of the Executive Yuan to the chairmanship of the National Government, which is now nominally occupied by Mr. Lin Sen; who will retire owing to old age.

The Ministry of Finance will be reorganized into the Ministry of Economics and will amalgamate the Ministry of Communications and Ministry of Railways. Mr. T. V. Soong will head this Ministry and also become president of the Executive Yuan.

Foreign Minister Lo Wen Kan will be so busy investigating the conditions in Sinkang that Mr. Huang Fu will be appointed his successor. As foreign minister, Mr. Huang will cement more closer Nanking's relations with Japan.

Mr. Tang Yu Jen, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, stated today that Mr. Wang Ching Wei would not care to accept the chairmanship of the National Government if political powers are nominal. In that event, Mr. Wang will remain in the Executive Yuan, Mr. Tang said, while Mr. Soong will devote his entire attention to the Ministry of Economics.—Central Press.

SIR ARTHUR SLATER

And His Trip To China

London, Sept. 6.

It is a personal invitation from the China Government and until he reaches China he will be unable to say definitely what the work will be. Reuter understands that Sir Arthur was probably invited to report on and advise China regarding financial reforms.—Reuter.

CANTON'S CLAIM

Large Amount Due By Nanking

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 7.

CANTON has a claim of $176,000,000 as loans advanced to the National Government and is asking for repayment, because money is urgently needed for various reconstruction schemes under General Chen Tsai Tong's Three-Year Plan.

Officials of the Provincial Department of Finance were at their wit's end in raising money for huge military expenditure as well as for the many reconstruction projects, but digging up the old files, they found that from 1912 to 1932 the Central Authorities had borrowed enormous amounts of money from the Kwangtung treasury.

This province is the richest in China, yielding at one time as high as $11,000,000 revenue per month. Therefore the Central Government at Peiping and later at Nanking kept on borrowing from Kwangtung. However, part of the $176,000,000 was advanced to the then Nationalist Government at Canton which badly needed money to finance the northern expedition in 1926.

From 1926 to 1931, Canton remitted monthly military loans to Nanking until May 1931, when further remittance was stopped following the establishment of a separate "National Government" here.

There is doubt whether Nanking will repay this huge loan in view of the diminished national revenues after the loss of the four North-eastern provinces and of the heavy military programme embarked upon by General Chiang Kai Shek. If Nanking is unable to repay this big sum, it is said, the provincial authorities will seek satisfaction by other means.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

The forthcoming marriage is announced between Mr. Charles Bertram Easterbrook, electrical engineer of the China Light and Power Company Limited and Miss Margaret Sykes of 35 Hankow Road.

Mr. Lau Hin Ming, a graduate of the Ming Chi University of Japan, has been appointed as secretary in the Kwangtung Municipal Government to succeed Mr. Sit Hin Lun who resigned on account of other duties.

The rebuilding of the Shanghai North Railway Station, started over two months ago, is complete and the traffic department's office of the S.N.R. and S.H.N.R., which was hitherto housed in a building near Boundary Road, will be removed into the new building on Friday.

The formal acceptance trial of H. M. S. Sandpiper, which has been assembled at the Kiangnan Dock, was held yesterday in the Lungwha reaches of the Whangpoo. The gunboat is expected to be commissioned at the end of this week and will leave up-river in command of Lieut.-Commander Percy Ashe.

Canton, September 7.—A bureau of long distance telephone administration will be established, and a head of the bureau has already been appointed by the provincial department of reconstruction. Canton is now communicated by long distance telephone to Shum Chun, Shaokwan, Waichow, Fayuen, Fatshan etc. The new bureau will supervise the upkeep of the present lines and will plan for extension of this service to other towns.—Central Press.

The engagement is announced between Edward Kenneth, younger son of Mr. E. C. King, of Bournemouth, Hampshire, and of the late Mrs. King, and Constance, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Crapnell, of Hong Kong, and Northwood, Middlesex.

Two of Germany's most famous army leaders of the World War, Field-Marshal von Mackensen and General Litzmann, have been appointed members of the Prussian State Council "in recognition of their great services for the Fatherland in times of war and peace and in order to make use of their wide experiences for the benefit of the State." Both officers are 83 years old.

The construction programme of Greater Harbin which is now being prepared by the special municipal government is expected to be launched early next Spring. The city office has been working on it since July 1 of this year, when the special municipality came into being, but it is expected to take at least half a year before it is completed as if affects an area of 95.5 square kilometres.

Tientsin Chinese authorities are considering the possibility of introducing a woman police and detective service, following the receipt of a circular despatch from the Ministry of the Interior emphasising the importance and necessity of a woman police service in keeping with modern trends. Regulations similar to those of the Peking service have already been drafted.

TIBETAN RAIDERS

Invading Sikang Again

Chungking, Sept. 7.

WITH civil strife scarcely over in Szechuen, news is to hand that Tibetan raiders are re-invading Sikang. Apparently, taking advantage of the absence of the Chinese forces which have been withdrawn to west Szechuen to participate in internecine war, the Tibetans are pressing hard on Chang Tu, a city to the west of Kin-Sha-Kiang River, where the handful of Chinese garrison troops cannot be expected to hold very long against the overwhelming odds. Even those Chinese forces stationed along the Kin-Sha-Kiang are abandoning their posts. Telegrams requesting the despatch of reinforcements to Sikang have been sent to Nanking.—Central News Agency.

Assuming Serious Aspect

Havana, Sept. 7.

THE Political turmoil in Cuba is rapidly assuming a more serious aspect, following the resignation on Tuesday of the Cespedes Government. Yesterday an unruly mob made an unsuccessfull attempt to seize an American citizen, while a crowd of communists took possession of two sugar mills.

A manifesto, guaranteeing order and promising that the old command of the armed forces will shortly be restored, has been issued by the Revolutionary Council.

Early yesterday, a mob of workmen attempted to remove the American manager of the Havana branch of the United Fruit Company from a liner berthed at Havana docks, while later, a crowd of Communists seized two sugar mills, one at Oriente and one at Santa Clara.

The two managers of the latter mill escaped from the mob, and took refuge on board a British freight steamer in the harbour.

Conditions Grow Worse in Cuba.

Washington, Sept. 7.

Reports that the conditions are growing worse in Cuba, especially on the South Coast, were received here yesterday from the United States Ambassador to Cuba, Mr. H. Summer Welles.

The departure of the United States Secretary of Navy, Mr. Claude Swanson for Havana on aboard the U.S.S. Indianapolis, was delayed for an hour, the reason not being disclosed.

President Roosevelt and the United States Secretary of State, Mr. William Cordell Hull, yesterday conferred with representatives of the Argentine, Brazil, Chile and Mexico. The President reiterated that the United States did not desire to intervene, and urged that the Cubans should obtain as rapidly as possible, a Government of their own choosing, and one which would maintain order and thus eliminate the necessity of United States intervention.—Reuter.

More Ships Ready.

Two United States destroyers are already in Havana harbour, and President Roosevelt is prepared to send further ships if the necessity arises. Two other American warships are already en route to Cuba.

The latest development in the Cuban situation occurred on Tuesday, when a group of extremists seized the reins of the Government. A non-commissioned officer, Sergeant Batista, was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Cuban forces, and one of his first acts was to arrest all officers of the Army, Navy and Police Force.

Four members of ex-President Machado's secret police were murdered in Satiago by a mob who looted the armoury.—Reuter.

DROUGHT CAUSES HEATH FIRES

Troops And Police Fight Outbreaks

London, Sept. 6.

TROOPS stripped to the waist and wearing steel helmets and gasmasks were again engaged yesterday in fighting heath fires along the borders of Hampshire and Surrey.

The countryside for nearly eight miles had been burning in the previous night's fire but, although its progress was stopped by the efforts of troops, police and civilians, smouldering patches again broke out in several place yesterday, notably along the Ringwood-Wimborne road.

Fire Brigades are using thousand of feet of hose, but the scarcity of water adds to the difficulties of the fire-fighters.

Troops were yesterday patrolling all areas where further outbreaks were likely and were to remain on duty throughout the night.

Smoke clouds from the heath lands could be seen for many miles. —British Wireless Service.

Telegraph Posts Ablaze

The serious heath fire was at Hartford Bridge Flats, Surrey, where a plantation, three miles square and representing a decade of Government Afforestation Work was destroyed during the night. Troops and police are now cutting trenches in the path of the flames which is threatening the villages and well-known establishments. Motorists were thrilled to see the flames forty feet high and the telegraph posts skirting the main roads ablaze.—Reuter.

ATTACK ON LORD KITCHENER

By L. G. In His "War Memories"

London, Sept. 7.

EXCEEDINGLY scathing criticism of the late Lord Kitchener and other outstanding figures of the war years are uttered by Mr. Lloyd George in the first volume of his "War Memories," published to-day.

The book has been eagerly awaited as was generally expected that it would contain vigorous commentaries upon Mr. Lloyd George's contemporaries in the early days of the War and the first volume is not disappointing.

The volume details events until 1915.

Source of Obstruction.

Mr. Lloyd George pungently attacks many generals and alleges that the War Office was a "perpetual source of obstruction" when he set out to organise the Ministry of Munitions.

He relates that after the Battle of Neuve Chappelle, one of the most sanguinary of the early days of the war, Sir John French's urgent plea for more ammunition was met by the complaint that the artillery had used thirteen rounds per gun daily!

Kitchener's Prestige.

Referring to the decline in Lord Kitchener's prestige, Mr. Lloyd George reveals that the Field-Marshal never knew that the Germans and the Austrian had crossed the Danube until twenty hours after the news of the advance had reached the War Office.

When Carson heard of this at a Cabinet meeting he passed Mr. Lloyd George a note saying: "K doesn't read telegrams and we do not see them. It is intolerable."—Reuter.

VIVISECTION IN GERMANY

Abolition To Be Discussed

Nauen, Aug. 25.

Berlin: In connection with the anti-vivisection legislation soon to be declared by the Government, it is officially announced that the Prussian Prime Minister, Captain Goering, has called a conference of experts for August 29 to discuss the protection of dumb animals as well as the closely related question of medical research. The conference has the purpose of enabling those concerned to have a thorough discussion on the question in the separate branches of research and medical work, so that the coming legislation may cover all the possibilities for the prevention of cruelty and torture to animals. At the same time the discussions should enable the delegates to form a clear conception of what vivisection really is and at whab point scientific necessity ends and cruelty begins.—Trans-Ocean Service.

THIRD KULING CONFERENCE

To Pave Way for Sino-Japanese Friendship

Shanghai, September 7.

MR. Tseng Chung Ming, vice-minister of railways and close follower of Mr. Wang Ching Wei, is quoted by his friends as saying that the third Kuling conference which met this morning is to reconcile the pro-Japanese faction of Mr. Huang Fu and the Euro-American clique under T. V. Soong.

This is to pave the way for an intimate relationship between the Nanking government and Japan.

It is also stated that the question of dividing up the proceeds of the G.$50,000,000 American wheat and cotton loan will also be discussed.

Other items on the agenda include the charge of administration of Kiangsu, Kiangsi, Honam, Anhwei and Chekiang, and discussion of the report submitted by Mr. T. V. Soong on his tour of Europe and America.—Central Press.

RED SUPPRESSION

Kuling, Sept. 7.

IMPORTANT decisions were reached on a number of internal and external problems at this morning's session of the Kuling Conference which Chiang Kai Shek, Wang Ching Wei and T. V. Soong attended.

In regard to the "Red" suppression problem it was agreed to appropriate $17,510,000 to finance the anti-Reds campaign to be vigorously carried out in the Red-infested areas in Central China.

A detailed plan for the rehabilitation of the flooded districts along the Yellow River was also submitted for discussion this morning and on experts' suggestion a decision was taken to raise $4,500,000 for relief work.

Another important resolution concerning technical co-operation between China and the League of Nations was passed. It was resolved that the League of Nations' technical experts be at first assigned to Kiangsu, Hunan, Hupei, Anhui and Chekiang to start their many-fold activities with the object of making these provinces as model ones for other provinces to follow.—Central News Agency.

THE NANCHANG CAPTIVES

Hopes Of Early Release

Newchwang, Sept. 7.

THE negotiations for the release of the s.s. Nanchang captives have successfully terminated through the Japanese captain of gendarmes, Captain Obata.

The captives are expected to be released on this morning.—Reuter.

The Nanchang piracy occured on March 30, while the vessel was at anchor off Newchwang Bar. The four officers carried off were, Messrs. A. D. Blue, Clifford Johnson, W. E. Hargrave and F. L. Pears. The latter was released shortly afterwards to convey the bandits' demands to the authorities.

nis and of fishing. It is significant that the only book he has written is on the art of fly-fishing. He has no passion for politics. He seems a casual figure in the field of affairs, a spectator who is a little bored by its feverish activities and idle talk. You feel that he may leave it at any moment, and be discovered at home making trout flies.

"It is this aloofness from life that is the key to his unique position. He comes into affairs, as it were, from the outside, detatched, unimpassioned, bringing his own atmosphere with him.

"Sir Edward is, indeed, the least democratic, as he is the least demonstrative of men. He belongs more than any man to-day to the great Whig tradition—the Whig tradition touched by the strong personality of Bishop Creighton, who was his tutor when that great man held a parsonage in Northumberland, and by the passionless spirit of the Balliol of Jowett. He distrusts the irresponsible waywardness of public opinion, with its quick emotions and passionate transitions. "The public! the public!" how many fools does it take to make the public?" he seems to say with a statesman of an earlier time. And yet, perhaps, that is unjust, for there is no trace of bitterness in him, and his patrician view is free from the taint of contempt or the airs of the superior person. It sits on him naturally. He is to the manner born. He takes his place at the high table without pushing and without challenge. He is there by a sort of royal authority, unconscious of itself, but imaged in the bold sculpture of the face, the steady eye, and the governing nose."

DUTCH SUGAR MERCHANTS

Anxious To Get Into Canton Market

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 7.

ALL is quiet to-day at the warehouses of the China Navigation Company, Ltd. Although merchants are permitted by the Kwangtung Seamen's Union to take delivery of the goods from the 18 godowns, nothing has yet been done.

Strikers and the Seamen's Union demanded that if merchants were to remove their goods at all, they must have them removed altogether at one time. On the other hand, the owners of goods said they should be permitted to have their own way in taking away the merchandise without any restrictions at all.

Owners of the goods are willing to pay the one and a half per cent. of the value of the goods to be taken away as stipulated by the Kwangtung Provincial Kuomintang. Still, the Seamen's Union and the strikers, it seems, have no wish to see the early deliveries of the goods.

Some foreign merchants in Java are interested to extend their sugar trade to Canton following the threat of the strikers to boycott the sugar refined by Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, agents of the China Navigation Company. The Dutch merchants are said to have approached the Union with a view to ascertaining the extent of the Taikoo sugar business in South China and how Java sugar can replace it.

THE CHARHAR SITUATION

Renewal Of Trouble Feared

Peiping, Sept. 7.

RENEWAL of trouble in Charhar is feared as a consequence of the recalcitrant attitude of General Chi Hung Chang and General Feng Chin Wu, who were formerly under the command of Feng Yu Hsiang. They are still refusing to hand over their commands to the Charhar Government, obviously haggling for more advantageous terms. Chi Hung Chang's troops appear to be making their way towards Tushikow with the object of joining themselves with Feng Chin Wu's army. Such a state of affairs might compel the Charhar Governor, Soong Tse Yuen, to resort to force as the last step to deal with them. Chi Hung Chang's representative at Changpei has been arrested by order of General Soong Tse Yuen.—Central News Agency.

JAPANESE TO WITHDRAW

Sixth Division From Manchuria

Tokyo, Sept. 7.

The War Office announced that Imperial sanction has been obtained for the withdrawal to Japan of the Sixth Division which was sent to Manchuria last January to relieve the Second Division shortly before the Jehol operations.

The withdrawal of the Division, leaving only three-and-a-half divisions in Manchuria appears to indicate that the Army is not perturbed by the reports that Soviet Russia are concentrating troops to the East of Siberia, though it is understood the Military Authorities are planning to oragnise additional Independent Railwayguard Battalions in Manchuria. The War Office also announced that reliefs composed of units from the First, Fourth, Seventh and Twelfth Divisions will be despatched to Tientsin shortly to replace units garrisoned there.—Reuter.

London Air-Mail Letter

Oxford And Shelley: Funeral Of A Distinguished Admiral: Death Of Harold Lake: Training Future Disraeli's And Baldwins: America's Premier Journalist: The Late Alec Cottrill

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Aug. 16.

THE SHELLEY MEMORIAL

It has always been one of the minor ironies of history that Oxford, having expelled Shelley 'for agnostic views, should have accepted a memorial to him, with a special dome-like chapel to house it.

The Shelley Memorial at University College is to be renovated. The white marble figure of the poet, nude, and lying in the position in which he is said to have been found drowned, is intact, in spite of nearly half a century of vandalistic plots to daub it with paint and otherwise maltreat it. But its surroundings have become shabby and the long corridor which approaches it is rather too sombre.

THE LATE ADMIRAL SIR WILLIAM PAKENHAM

Eight Admirals of the Fleet and representatives from the navies of the great nations of the world escorted the remains of Admiral Sir William Christopher Pakenham from Princes Gate, London, to Brompton Parish Church for the funeral service. The procession marked the last stage of a long journey. The Admiral's body had been brought home from San Sebastian, where he died.

A gun team from H.M.S. Pembroke drew the coffin, and a detachment from the same ship led the procession in its march by way of Exhibition Road and Cromwell Road to the church. The band of the Royal Marines played Chopin's Funeral March on the route.

The King was represented by Admiral Sir Henry Buller, the Prince of Wales by Admiral Sir Lionel Halsey, and the First Lord of the Admiralty by Mr. P. N. Synnott (private secretary). Earl Beatty and Sir Charles Madden were among a group of famous naval men now retired. The American Ambassador and Lord Burghley were among those sitting behind the relatives.

The eight Admirals in uniform who brought the coffin to the church with Sir William's sword, hat, and medals laid on the Union Jack with which it was draped were Sir Reginald Tyrwhitt, Sir Charles Briggs, Sir Montague Browning, Sir Richard Phillimore, Sir James Fergusson, Sir Walter Cowan, Sir Arthur Waistell, and Sir William Boyle.

"I HEAR YOU CALLING ME"

Mr. Harold Lake, who wrote the words of the song "I hear you calling me," died at his home in London yesterday after a long illness. He was 51 and leaves a widow.

Recently he told how the lyric came to be written.

The late Harry Dearth, the ballad singer, and Mr. Lake were both singing in the choir school of Westminster Abbey. Mr. Lake was then assistant master in the choir. Harry Dearth induced him to write lyrics. Then, in Mr. Lake's own words:

"What happened was that a 16-year-old pupil teacher in an elementary school in Canterbury . . . came into the presence of a girl nearly a year his junior with a mantle of dark hair . . .

"There followed three years of such utter devotion as only the very young can know, then a fortnight of galloping consumption, and a lad of 19 standing on a November day beside a grave. . . .

"It was six years later that I woke up one morning . . . anyhow, the words were written in 20 minutes, before it was time to get up."

Mr. Lake was a member of the staff of the "Daily Express."

100,000 BUTTERFLIES

What is probably the most complete collection of butterflies in the world will shortly be on show in a Paris museum.

It contains about 100,000 specimens of butterflies caught by the Swiss entomologist, M. Frhustorfer. They are chiefly from India and Australia.

SIR ROBERT HORNE'S TROPHY

Politics is a subject in which most of us find it hard to work up a great deal of enthusiasm at this holiday time of the year.

But there are some real enthusiasts who are already planning and organising lecture courses and speaking competitions for the autumn, when the long evenings are more suited to political discussion.

One of them is Sir Robert Horne. He takes a great interest in the rapidly-expanding system of Conservative political "schools" and speakers' classes — particularly those organised for the younger members of the party.

He has presented a valuable challenge trophy for a competition in which it is expected that hundreds of speakers will take part.

INTERRUPTING JUDGES

The competitions take the form of a public meeting in miniature—the teams of four comprising a chairman, principal speaker, and mover and seconder of a vote of thanks.

And to encourage repartee and to discourage those dismal recitations which so often in a novice betray the speech "learnt by heart," the judges will interrupt vigorously.

A JOURNALIST'S EARNINGS

Mr. Walter Winchell, New York's "ace" gossip writer, is claiming £100,000 from Mr. Al Jolson, whose singing of "Sonny Boy" made half the civilised world weep happily. Winchell, whose suit arises from an incident in Hollywood when Jolson knocked him down, is said by his awed fellow-journalists to earn 200,000dol. a year, and I should not be surprised to find that he makes at least half that sum. His radio talks bring him in almost as much as his journalism.

Winchell—youngish, hard-boiled, and inscrutable—wields extraordinary power in New York, particularly on Broadway and the Forty-fourth-street district. He holds a sort of court at his regular table at the Algonquin Hotel, but lives, with a wife and a couple of children, at another hotel, the Lincoln.

Journalism has always been in his blood. He ran away from school to join, at 12, a vaudeville act known as "The Newsboys Sextette." "That qualified me as dramatic critic," he told me.

A RACING TRAGEDY

Mr. Alec Cottrill, the amateur rider who was fatally injured at Lewes, was a serious young man with a brilliant career as a trainer before him. Mr. George Lambton has been deprived of a splendid assistant who would probably have become his successor.

Mr. Cottrill's father, Harry Cottrill, was in a bank and took up riding, at first, for amusement. But he later became trainer for Mrs. Soter Whitburn, and soon came to the front rank of trainers.

SLIPPING SADDLES

The tragedy of Mr. Alec Cottrill was intensified by the manner of his death. Amateur steeplechase riders fall with great frequency. But here was a flat race, in which two first-class amateurs were unhorsed through their saddles slipping. Mr. Cundell fell on his feet and was unhurt. Mr. Cottrill's injuries proved fatal.

A friend who has long experience of racing told me to-day that he could recollect no previous instance of two saddles slipping in the same race.

CHANG PAI TSE SURRENDERS

Canton, Sept. 7.

LIEUTENANT General Wang Chan Pin in command of the 44th Kwangsi division, who is responsible for the capture of Anyuan, has sent a liaison officer to the Cantonese Kiangsi command with the object of effecting co-operation in the coming onslaught on Hui-chang.

BEER

FOOD VALUE OF ALCOHOL

In an address to the old boys association of the Hull Municipal Technical College, Sir William Arbuthnot Lane, the eminent surgeon and physician said:

"People grumble about alcohol and say that we are a nation of drunkards, but for everyone that dies of alcohol a thousand die from meat. Alcohol is one of the best foods we have. It is a most economical food, and if it did not act on the nervous system one would be able to take a great deal more."

The result of a poll of farmers recently taken on the proposed formation of National and regional milk pools was announced yesterday by the National Farmers Union as follows:

In favour, 96.42 per cent.

Against 3.58 per cent.

Registered producers who voted in favour of the scheme possess 96.61 per cent. of the cows and those who voted against own 3.39 per cent.—British Wireless Service.

DEVELOPMENTS IN CHINA

T. V. Soong To Have Important Position

Nanking, Sept. 7.

THE Government leaders assembled at Kuling held a lengthy round table conference yesterday, when views were exchanged on various outstanding problems, according to telegrams published in the Chinese papers this morning.

Regarding the disposal of the American Loan, Chinese telegrams state that Mr. T. V. Soong will suggest that $16,000,000 be ear-marked for finance, both "immediately and fundamental," and measures in connection with bandit suppression, while the remainder will be placed at the disposal of the National Economic Council for constructive enterprises.

The telegrams add that Mr. Soong feels that, in order to achieve the best possible results, the proceeds of the American Loan should be extended through a centralised organ, rather than divided among the various Ministries and Commissions.

While the discussions are taking place in Kuling, speculation is rife in Chinese circles here regarding possible political changes. The independent newspaper, "Sin Min Pao," forecasts that General Huang Fu will be appointed Foreign Minister and Dr. H. H. Kung Finance Minister, while Mr. T. V. Soong will be given an important post in connection with the economic development of China.—Reuter.

GREAT MANILA STADIUM

For 1934 Far Eastern Games

Work on the Rizal Memorial Field, one of the finest stadiums in this part of the world is now in progress and by January of next year this athletic arena will be completed. The 1934 Far Eastern Games next May will be staged in this sports emporium.

The Rizal Memorial Field is being built at a cost of between P.180,000 and P.170,000. Pedro Siochi, constructing engineer, made possible the construction of this stadium by agreeing to finance the project and to wait until the Philippine Amateur Federation can raise the funds to repay him.

The stadium is located at Harrison Park near the boundary line between Manila and Rizal province. This field when finished will be complete in every detail. It will have facilities for soccer football, baseball, track oval, basketall, swimming pool, tennis courts and volleyball courts.

French Indo-China Preparing

French Indo-China is getting ready for the 1934 Far Eastern Games which will be conducted in Manila, according to a letter recently received by Dr. Regino Ylanan, national physical director from a prominent sports official of that country.

The government officials, according to the letter, are giving the sports officials every possible moral and monetary support. The government has appropriated funds for the training of athletes and holding of tryouts, it is said.

All of French Indo China is interested in the games, the same letter stated.

The other ships will also muster bands and crews to cheer the Cornwall out of Port and wish her a good voyage, and a good leave to her ship's company when they pay off.

H. M. Suffolk is due here on the 19th inst. and will stay till December.

Shanghai, Sept. 7.—The Association of Chinese Cotton Mills here is requesting the Central Bank of China to grant the Chinese cotton mills a loan of $5,000,000 in order to relieve them from business hardship. Preliminary discussions had been held with Mr. H. H. Kung, Governor of the Central Bank. But definite arrangements might not be reached until the return of Mr. T. V. Soong to Nanking from Kuling.—Central News Agency.

REPLY TO CANTON

Chiang And Wang Explain

Shanghai, Sept. 7.

Replying to a telegram by the Canton leaders asking for an explanation as to the latest policies of the Central Government in dealing with the outstanding problems, Mr. Wang Ching Wei and Marshal Chiang Kai Shek jointly despatched a telegram to Canton yesterday stating, inter alia, that the Central Government would never use the proceeds of the American cotton and wheat loan for other purposes than economic developments. The Central Political Council was considering a detailed plan, they added, for supervising the utilisation of the loan.

In regard to the Tangku Truce Agreement with the Japanese, the telegram stressed that its full text had been published without keeping any part of its contents in secrecy.

In reply to Canton's demand for the postponement of the Fifth Plenary Session of the Kuomintang, it declared that the resolution for the calling of it had been legally passed by in accordance with the regulations of the Party. If the Canton leaders took exception they had better do so by formally tabling their objection at the Standing Committee of the Kuomintang.—Central News Agency.

ROBOT THAT WRITES WHAT IT HEARS

German Wireless Expert Perfects New Invention

Perfection of a robot stenographer to take down and type out wireless messages is announced by Dr. Rudolf Hell, a well-known German radio-technician.

He claims that his instrument is particularly suited to transmission of news or market reports, which has hitherto necessitated the employment of stenographers.

Based on the principle of picture telegraphy, the instrument receives the impulses from the central distributing station. These impulses, timed to 1-2000 of a second, are received and transmitted into the letter forms on ordinary white paper, which can be duplicated with carbon copies.

The machine makes two sets of imprints, one above the other, so that interference is limited.

Passed Post Office Tests.

When Dr. Hell had his machine ready for exhaustive tests the postal authorities sought out several places known for their poor wireless receptions. The machine was tested in these places, and Government officials are said to be pleased with the performance.

It has a receiving speed of 300 letters a minute, and its inventor thinks it will be able to cut considerable wiring costs for newspaper organisations or agencies distributing market reports.

It is estimated that the machine can be installed for just over £100.

MISS S. DA CRUZ'S ASSAILANT

Certified As Insane

Chiu, Ho, the Chinese youth who attacked Miss S. da Cruz with a chopper at Laichikok Beach on Saturday was committed to the lunatic asylum by Mr. Butters, the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday. In the course of the proceedings against him for assault, a medical certificate testifying to his insanity was produced by the police.

It will be recalled that immediately after his arrest for the assault, he was sent to Kowloon Hospital for observation, as it was suspected that he was mentally deranged.

BRITISH TROOPS IN CHINA

Question Of Barrack Accommodation

POSITION AT KOWLOON

The question of better accommodation for troops in China still engages official attention. With regard to Hong Kong improvements are in hand to remedy defects. The Indian Infantry Battalion is quartered at Kowloon on the mainland. There is a great shortage of accommodation for all ranks, but British Officers can find rooms in a certain number of Government quarters, available for bachelors only. Married officers have to make their own arrangements in hotels, flats or boarding houses. The best hotel in Kowloon at the present time is the Peninsula Hotel, the daily rate for front double rooms being $15 inclusive, and for back double rooms $14 inclusive. Boarding houses charges are from $300 to $450 per month. Practically there is no place for European children to play. The Indian Infantry Barracks are situated in the midst of Kowloon in close proximity to Chinese bazaars. Two small rooms for each Indian officer about 10ft by 10 ft. with washing rooms, etc., attached to each quarter are available, but these are very hot during the summer months. All other Indian ranks are accommodated in Whitfield Barracks with an overflow in Whitfield Camp Barracks but even then the accommodation is very short. The buildings in Whitfield Barracks are mostly two storied bungalows with verandahs on both sides, but in Whitfield Camp Barracks are single storied with one verandah only. Buildings for officers, stores, schools, coffee shop, Indian officers' clubs, etc., have to be taken from what should be living accommodation. Wash houses and cook houses are good with tap water laid on. Insufficient accommodation also applies for Warrant officers of the Indian Army Service Corps; the Indian personnel of the Mule Corps are not housed in separate lines but are in Whitfield Camp Barracks with other units. £8,000 is being spent this year on officers' quarters at Kowloon and £20,000 at Sham Shui Po Camp on reconditioning the hutments there.

KIDNAPPER COMMITTED TO SESSIONS

FATHER'S SEARCH FOR SEVEN YEAR-OLD SON

Charged with kidnapping a child and returning from banishment a Chinese named Wong Kwan was yesterday committed to the Criminal Sessions on both counts, by Mr. Butters, the Kowloon Magistrate.

On the charge of kidnapping, Det.-Sergt. Lamont, prosecuting, said that on the morning of the 26th ult. the complainant, a seven year old child named Ho Kat Cheung, left his house and went to a street nearby. As he did not return his mother got anxious and went out to search for him. Failing to find him she reported the matter to the police. Later in the afternoon the boy's father, who had been told by his wife what had happened, went out to look for the child himself. He found the boy in Taipo Road with the defendant and a woman, and he chased the defendant for some distance till the latter was stopped and arrested by a Weihaiwei constable.

Chan Kin Sung, the mother of the child, said that she had missed her boy about 9 a.m., that is an hour after he had left the house. She went in search of him but could not find him. She then reported the matter to the Mongkok Police Station. Later in the day she went to Shamshuipo Station in answer to a message and identified her son.

The Father's Search.

Ho Lai, a coolie employed by the China Gas Company, said that he was the father of Ho Kat Cheung. On the 26th at about 1 p.m., when he was working in Austin Road, his wife came to him and told him that their son was lost. He left his work and went to look for the boy. He met with no success at first but later in the afternoon he again went out. In Taipo Road he saw the defendant, a woman and his son squatting on the road as if waiting for a bus. When his son saw him he called out to him. Defendant ran away and witness pursued him. They had not got very far before the accused was stopped and arrested by a Weihaiwei constable who was on duty there. Witness could not say what happened to the woman as he was concentrating all his attention on the defendant.

In answer to His Worship witness said that when he came up with the defendant he asked him where he was taking his child and the accused replied that he was not taking him anywhere.

The Child's Story.

Ho Kat Cheung, the kidnapped child, told the court that the defendant had accosted him when he was returning home and had told him that he was going to his "ah suk" (uncle). They boarded a bus, together with a woman who had joined them, when the defendant stopped to buy him (witness) some caramels. They all went to a certain house and had a meal there; after which the woman, and the defendant took witness out into the street and changed his clothes. They gave him a new jacket, trousers and hat. They then went to the bus stop to get a bus but before one arrived witness' father turned up and caught the defendant.

The defendant did not challenge the evidence and acknowledged that he had admitted kidnapping the child at the police station.

His Worship convicted him on this charged and committed him to the Sessions.

On the charge of returning from banishment the defendant was also sent for trial.

MALAYAN CHAMPIONSHIP WON and British Record Broken with help of PHOSFERINE

CHAMPION OOI LEONG TEIK writes:—

"IT is with the greatest pleasure that I write to testify to the benefits I have received by taking Phosferine during my training for the 1931 Malayan Weight-Lifting Championships.

As I had to reduce some seven or eight pounds off my normal bodyweight in order to enable me to compete in the 9-stone class, I had to go into very strenuous training, and with the help of Phosferine, I not only won the championship of that class, but also the Individual Championship, and, in addition I broke a British Record.

I therefore have no hesitation in recommending Phosferine to any physical culturist or athlete, whether he be in ordinary training or preparing for a competition, as it capitalist and is often ten to twelve hours in length. There is no regulation of working conditions. Employment is highly seasonal and when it is over the labourers are left to fend for themselves.

GIVES ENERGY and ENDURANCE and RENEWS BROKEN-DOWN TISSUE."

Propaganda.

The Soviet Government has been able to draw contrasts, useful for propaganda purposes, between the autocratic methods of the Chinese and its own policy of equality of all races. It has seldom used the stereotyped Communist propaganda in Sinkiang, preferring rather to develop its influence through the media of commerce and race.

The latter has formed a strong basis for appeal, especially among the Kirghiz and Kazaks, two nomad tribes who inhabit the western part of Sinkiang. These are blood brothers of the Kirghiz and Kazaks of Russian Turkestan and the communication between the two which goes on across the border constantly has been extremely useful to the Russians in gaining the friendship of the Sinkiang natives. Likewise profitable in this regard is the natural gift of the Russian for fraternizing with alien races. Travellers report that Russian colonists in Central Asia have always been more friendly to the natives than other white men.

The decisive factor in establishing a strong Soviet influence in Sinkiang, however, was the construction of the Turkestan-Siberian Railroad. Running northward through Russian Turkestan the railroad parallels the Sinkiang border at such close distance that it has been connected with the chief cities of the province by motor roads.

Travel between China proper and Sinkiang is effected by caravans, which are three or four months in transit. Although keenly aware of the need for rail connections, the Chinese have never been able to finance the laying of a railroad.

And Russia held other trumps in the hand she played for the control of Sinkiang's trade. The state trade monopoly enables the Soviets to quote flat rates on buying and selling, thus completely demoralizing the Chinese traders. As a result of this they have for several years had a monopoly of the cotton market. Then, too, for centuries the annual fair at Nizhni-Novgorod was the brightest spot in the Turki calendar, giving face to the trade of the province. Compared with Nizhni-Novgorod, Peiping, to the Turkoman, was a dream and an abstraction. When the Turkestan-Siberian Railway gave Russia complete control over the economic life of Sinkiang, it merely marked the culmination of a long historic process.

Moscow Or Nanking.

To-day Chiang Kai Shek is marshaling the war lords of China for an attack upon the Red legions of Soviet China, which the Nanking Government regards as a possibly even greater menace than Japanese invasion. Soviet China now occupies more than one-sixth of the area of the country, and its leaders govern about 90,000,000 of the population.

The next few months will decide whether or not the Sinkiang rebels will renew their allegiance to Nanking or follow a road of their own. Should they pursue the latter course and should that road lead toward Moscow, less than a thousand miles of sparsely settled territory will separate the Soviet Governments of Russia and China.—O.B. in the "Christian Science Monitor."

EX-INSPECTOR COMMENDED

Responsible For Capture Of Thief

Prompt action by Det.-Inspr. C. P. Fallon, who was until lately in the C.I.D. was responsible for the arrest of a snatcher, and the ex-officer was commended by Mr. Schofield at Central Magistracy yesterday after the thief had been sentenced to six months' hard labour.

Sub-Inspector Nolloth, prosecuting, stated that the complainant, was walking outside the military playing fields at Sookunpoo when the defendant, Li Tsoi, snatched her handkerchief in which she had $32.20 and ran away with. Her shouts brought Inspector Fallon to the scene and, with the complainant's husband chased the man. He jumped into a nullah and with Inspector Fallon hard after him he ran into a culvert. He was arrested at the other end by the complainant's husband. He then took the Inspector back along the nullah and showed him the money hidden beneath a piece of tin.

"THE CISCO KID"

At The Oriental Theatre

While Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe are rated among the really good horsemen of the screen colony, both learned some new tricks in riding while making O. Henry's "The Cisco Kid," Fox feature attraction will be seen at the Oriental Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Much of the picture was filmed in the Santa Cruz desert in Arizona, and contrary to the general impression, there are deserts—and deserts. This one happens to the thicky covered with cactiranging from the huge saguaros to the small but formidable bisnaga, with spiny palo verde trees, buckthorns and various other plants that are best left severely alone, either when walking or riding.

The job of piloting a horse at full speed through obstacles of this sort requires horsemanship of a high degree to avoid painful injury or worse, and the script called for many such scenes of Sergeant Dunn, alias Lowe, in hot pursuit of his old enemy, the Cisco Kid (otherwise Baxter). The two players necessarily learned how to "weave" at full gallop much as a half-back weaves through an opposing team.

Conchita Montenegro and Nora Lane have the feminine roles in this exciting romance of the border, the supporting cast includes Frederick Willard Robertson, James Bradbury, Jr., Charlie Stevens, Douglas Haig and Marilyn Knoweden.

FISHING VILLAGE BUILT

For Scene In "Peg O' My Heart"

One of the most extensive outdoor settings constructed in recent months was erected by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer-Cosmopolitan for the fishing village sequence in "Peg O' My Heart," the new Marion Davies starring picture which is coming on Sunday to the Queen's Theatre.

The village, built on the edge of the Pacific Ocean near Laguna, California, represents a township in County Mayo, Ireland, and includes in its winding streets replicas of Irish thatched homes, meeting halls, churches, fish wharves and a coast guard station. All the structures were designed from primitive, characteristic rambling Irish architecture. The studio research department supplied many of the details from a study of actual photographs taken in Ireland.

Grass Seed Imported

Along the waterfront were docked a score of Irish fishing craft, built for the picture from other tiny ships plying the Pacific in fleets for sardines and shrimp for the canning industry. Grass seed was imported from Ireland to lend a realistic appearance to the "ould sod" and the village was peopled with Irish extra players recruited from Hollywood's army of studio workers.

More than six acres of ground were covered by the settings and tons of fresh mackerel, actually caught by the film fishing fleet, were used in the scenes. Later, the fish was was donated to the poor through charity organizations.

Robert Z. Leonard directed "Peg O' My Heart," which is based on the J. Hartley Manners stage success in which Laurette Taylor was starred.

MORTGAGED GODOWN SOLD FOR $30,000

But Two Borrowings To Be Paid Off

No. 34, Belcher's Street, a general godown was auctioned on Wednesday by order of the second mortgagee at the China Auction Rooms, going into the possession of Mr. Kan Man Hing, the only bidder, for $30,000.

The property, however, was sold subject to a transfer of the first mortgage and the repayment of the principal and interest, therefrom, amounting to nearly $29,000, and the final sum Mr. Kan will have to pay will therefore be $59,000.

The property has an area of nearly 9,000 sq. ft., and a lease of 999 years.

TRAFALGAR DAY

SPECIAL CELEBRATIONS BEING CONSIDERED.

It is hoped this year to arrange special celebration of Trafalgar Day, October 21, partly in honour of the visit of Capt. D. E. Wallace, M.C., M.P., Civil Lord of the Admiralty, who is expected to arrive on October 19, and partly because it is felt that a naval port like Hongkong should not let that great anniversary pass unmarked, except by a wreath-laying on monuments and possibly some other small celebration.

We understand that a committee of Naval officers and civilians interested in this matter has been in consultation, and an announcement will shortly be forthcoming.

We are sure that a good programme, suitable to the day, would meet with wide support from the community.

SIR V. SASSOON ON RUSSIA

Address On Present Conditions

DARK AND BRIGHT SIDE

The present day interest in Russia and the desire to learn facts at first hand were fully demonstrated by a record attendance at the Taj Mahal Hotel, Bombay, earlier this month, when Sir Victor Sassoon spoke on "My Visit to Russia."

The record attendance included a good proportion of lady guests who listened with evident interest to what Sir Victor had to say, particularly on Russia's original solution of the problems of love, marriage and divorce.

Sir Victor said that he thought most people could get "a good idea" about a country in three weeks, and if they wanted to learn more they should stay thirty years. It sounded extraordinary, but he thought everything he read about Russia was correct. There was both a dark and a bright side and what the Russian authorities particularly objected to was the presentation of the dark side only.

In one place he and his companion who represented a Trade Union, were shown a curious photograph which purported to be the whole of the British Cabinet and the Archbishop of Canterbury "praying for the destruction of Russia." They examined this photograph and it seemed to be all right. There was Mr. MacDonald and the Archbishop and they were praying. But it seemed curiously familiar, and eventually they discovered that it was an Armistice Day picture and the London Cenotaph in the middle had been painted out.

Food Fairly Plentiful.

Regarding creature comforts, Sir Victor said he had more than he could eat in Russia. The food might not be what they had been accustomed to, but there seemed to be plenty of it for visitors. He went to a restaurant catering for working men and found that each man gave an order the day before as to what he wanted; so there was no waste and nothing left over. Those working in the heavy industries were well looked after and had plenty to eat. But in the light industries things are not so good and here one saw the families queueing up for their rations.

One thing about it was that the present generation had nothing with which to compare their existing conditions. They were therefore content. The danger was that they would grow up and when there was general education in Russia the children would ask why two and two should make five and not four. With the old generation they had the memories of a previous regime and could compare things.

Well-Run Schools.

There was no doubt about it that the present intense Russian propaganda was having its effect on the children. His companion and he had two child guides at one time aged about eleven or twelve, and their intelligence was remarkable.

They visited children's schools and found these excellently run. A teacher could not punish children and this had to be done by the "School Soviet." Very often the children in the "School Soviet" were in favour of much more severe punishment than any teacher would have dreamt of.

The curious thing which struck them about the streets was that there was no delivery and nobody was carrying any parcels. They could not quite fathom this until they realised the only shopping was for immediate personal needs.

Marriage and Divorce.

Speaking about the marriage system of Russia, Sir Victor said that a marriage cost one rouble but a divorce cost double. He watched one marriage taking place, and as a bachelor it struck him that the couple was just as stupid as any other couple in any other part of the world.

When a man got divorced he paid one-fifth of his income to his wife, but he could not have more than half his income taken away in this manner. Where there were children the question of divorce was not so easy.

Food Slaves.

In Russia they had a country where folks said the people ruled themselves. This was only because the masses were food slaves and dare not do any other. If a man refused to agree to a certain course of action it was an easy matter to stop his food ticket, so, of course, he was not such a fool as to disagree.

Not Needed

"Can't see why I should buy your book," said the farmer to the persistent canvasser.

"Why, it will show you how to be a better farmer."

"Listen, son," said the elderly man, impressively. "I'm not half as good a farmer now as I know how to be."—"Boston Transcript."

£5,000,000 OIL LOSS FOR SOVIET

Anglo-U.S. Groups Stop Orders

DAMAGING BLOW TO CREDIT

The Diplomatic Correspondent of the "London Daily Telegraph" states:—

I am able to reveal that a serious blow has been dealt to the Soviet Government's hopes of obtaining at an early date large amounts in cash and credit from the sale of Russian oil to the leading British and American groups.

Such amounts are sorely and urgently needed to fill the depleted coffers of the Soviet Treasury. And oil is now the only important security which the Soviet Government can offer would-be lenders.

For owing to scarcity and famine grain and other foodstuffs are no longer available in any quantities for export, while the dumping of Russian timber is being checked in most countries. Moscow's disappointment over the latest developments is therefore bitter and intense.

"Shell" has definitely decided not to deal in Russian oil, whether directly or indirectly. "Standard Oil" has broken off the secret and protracted negotiations which it had been carrying on in Europe with Soviet representatives during the past few months, so that no new agreement has been signed.

Anglo-U.S. Cordiality.

"Shell's" decision will cause little surprise. At the World Oil Conference held in New York in May, 1932, for the purpose of reaching agreement with the Soviet oil authorities, the chief negotiator on "Shell's" behalf, Mr. Kessler, had already reached the conclusion that it was useless to look to Moscow for any reasonable and mutually satisfactory agreement.

His American colleagues, however, remained more optimistic, and determined to make a further effort. The negative result of this is now seen.

The 1932 New York Conference, however, was fruitful in one respect. It failed to produce the desired agreements with Soviet Russia. But it established friendlier, and even cordial, relations between the British-American oil groups, and succeeded in removing much of the mutual jealously and mistrust that had hitherto characterised their dealings with Russian oil.

As a matter of fact, the American oil groups now recognise that "Shell" and "Anglo-Persian" were far better acquainted than themselves with the true facts of the Russian oil position. In future, Soviet agents will no longer be able to play off the American against the British oil group, or vice versa. This should be a tremendous gain to both.

Fall in Russian Export.

According to expert computation, this two-fold decision by "Shell" and "Standard Oil" will entail for the Soviet Government a loss of at least £5,000,000 (at par) per annum.

In comparison with last year, Russian oil exports already shows a decline of roughly 20 per cent., whilst the aggregate net yield of Russian oil products is down by approximately 35 per cent. This is due to the fact that the Soviet Government has been losing heavily in Great Britain, South Africa, China, and in various other markets where it has attempted to pursue an aggressive policy.

British oil circles point to the further fact that, during the past six or seven months the Soviet oil industry has experienced a virtual breakdown. The Soviet Press does not even endeavour to conceal this, and admits that the Soviet organisations are 40 per cent. behind with their original plan.

Indeed, so alarmed are they at the present prospects that they are now taking drastic steps to retrieve a desperate situation by the hurried release of a number of oil specialists from prison, and their dispatch to the distressed oilfields.

It is suggested by American friends of Moscow that the breaking off of relations between "Standard Oil" and the Soviet Government is unlikely to affect the outcome of the present talks between the Soviet Government and Washington on the subject of diplomatic recognition. This may or may not be so. But this business rupture is bound to affect Soviet credit in America.

MEANING OF COLOURS

Lecture By Mr. Geoffrey Hodson

CONTACT WITH "ANCIENT WISDOM"

Under the auspices of the Theosophical Society, Mr. Geoffrey Hodson, the international clairvoyant who is on a lecture tour of the world, gave an interesting talk last evening on "The Occult Meaning of Colours."

Mr. B. Paul presided over the meeting.

Mr. Hodson at the outset told the audience that he was giving a series of eight lectures. He said that there always existed a body of truth about every conceivable subject concerning man and the universe as a whole and the relationship between the two. The existing facts have always been known and in fact, there was no such thing as a mystery. There were no limitations upon knowledge, the only limitations there were, were in the mind of the students.

Speaking of colours, Mr. Hodson said that all the colours influenced and effected our health, body, character, etc. The subject of colours was one for meditation rather than for words. Our fathers, like Jacob gave us a coat of many colours for this life of ours, with its emotions and passions. Although we may not be aware of it, every one of us was clothed in many colours. The human aura, in fact, was a very facinating subject, as each colour had a power and each colour had a meaning and each colour had an influence upon us.

The speaker than ran through the colours of the spectrum. He said there were seven colours of white light and these were co-related to the seven planets, the seven musical scale, the seven senses and so on. Describing the various shades of red, he said that while vermillion showed strength, a dullar shade or red showed anger. An angry man radiated red spots which are caught up by an audience and thus sometimes a man can produce many sparks of red from his fellow men. Here you have crowd psychology. The rose red was a very useful colour for the sick as it was a tonic to the nerves.

Orange colour meant pride and as a healing influence it was a vitaliser. Yellow was the colour which manifested thought in a person. This colour in healing has a very marked anti-tubercular influence, especially in the initial stages. Emerald green, said the speaker was a vitaliser, especially for the digestive system.

Blue was the colour signifying devotion and in healing sapphire blue was an astringent. Modern science of colour healing was discovered by this blue influence by accident. A certain man was dying of X-ray disease and a friend brought him an armful of blue flowers. His pains left him. In time the flowers withered and the pains returned. By a co-incidence the friend brought some more blue flowers and the pain once more left the man, who, although he never recovered, got well enough to get investigations started on colour healing.

Blue was also the colour of peace and the speaker recommended anyone who was troubled or worried to think in blue.

With regard to Indigo and violet the speaker did not go into them at very great length. Violet he said was dangerous to use in healing as it was a mixed colour and the red in it might do more harm than good.

The lecture concluded by the speaker answering questions put by the audience.

A NEW ANÆSTHETIC

Avoiding Unpleasant Effects Of Chloroform

Experiments are being made by British doctors with a new anaesthetic called evipan, which is injected into the veins. Where it is used the patient falls asleep within two minutes, and the unpleasant sensations of chloroform and ether are eliminated.

An authority on anaesthetics said that evipan had not been sufficiently tried to judge fully of its safety factor.

"Several hundred operations have been successfully performed in London hospitals with evipan," he said, "and an official investigation was made on 100 cases. So far there have been no deaths.

"The report on the 100 cases showed that evipan has certain limitations. It does not give complete relaxation, which is essential in abdominal operations, and up till the present the longest period for which it has been used is half an hour.

"The question of prolonging the period so that it can be used for longer operations has yet to be decided. There is no possibility that it will completely replace anaesthetics which are inhaled. In the first place, not everybody can take an injection. But it is eminently suitable in simple operations."

FRENCH AIR LINES TO AMALGAMATE

100,000,000-Franc Combine

Details of a 100,000,000-franc amalgamation of five French air companies were given to a reporter at the London offices of the Air Union.

"The amalgamation will come into effect on September 1," said an official. "The companies joining forces are Air Union, Air Orient, Aeropostale, Farman, and Sidna. The object of the organisation, which will be known as Air France, is to combine the greatest possible efficiency with economy.

"It will be possible with Air France to provide adequate services to the principal centres of the world, to increase and improve travel facilities where necessary, and to institute an all-round speeding-up. In combining in this way these companies are following the example set by the constituent companies of Imperial Airways some years ago."

It was also stated that one of the reforms contemplated by Air France will be the building up of services to the Orient. Experiments have already been made with a new type of monoplane, which, it is expected, will be put into service by the end of the year. Passengers will be able to travel from Croydon to India in 3½ days. The service will be extended later to Hong Kong. With the amalgamation of the companies all the pilots of the constituent concerns will be pooled, so as to be available for duty on any of the services operated.

THE EXCHANGE MARKET

MESSRS. ROZA BROS.. REPORT

Messrs. Roza Bros. have forwarded us the following exchange market for yesterday:—

Silver prices were lower yesterday to the extent of 1/8 for Ready and 3/16 for Forward, the quotations being 18.1/16 and 18⅛ respectively. Silver advices reported Indian Bazaars as having sold. The Continent also sold. China Banks bought. The tone at the close was steady. In America the rate was slightly lower at 37 for September.

New York advices reported the opening rate at 4.54½ and the closing rate at 4.54½. The highest rate done was 4.56½.

Market.

Dull, the tone was steady.

Sterling.

Small business was done during the course of the morning at 1/5 for October followed later by another transaction at 1/5 for second half September. The market closed at lunch time with sellers at 1/4, 31/22 September, 1/5 October and 1/5.1/32 November, buyers at 1/16 higher respectively.

U.S. Dollars.

Nothing done. There were sellers at 32½ September and 32⅜ October, buyers at 1/16 higher respectively.

Yen.

Merchants were quoted at 120½ for near delivery.

Shanghai Dollars.

Shanghai dollars were quoted at 111⅜ for cash.

Shanghai.

Sellers were indicated at 1/3½ for near with business done at 1/3. 5/16 October.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

There was a little more activity in the afternoon.

Sterling.

In sterling business was done at 1/5.1/16 October, 1/5.1/32 second half September and last week September. The market closed with sellers at 1/5 September and 1/5. 1/32 October, buyers at 1/32 higher respectively.

U.S. Dollars.

Business was done at 32½ for near, 32½ October and 32.5/16 near. The market closed with sellers at 32½ September and 32½ October, buyers probably at 1/16 higher respectively.

Shanghai.

The market was a shade easier. There were buyers at 1/2.5/16 for near, sellers at 1/3½ September.

THE U.S. INVESTMENT MARKET

From Asia Lands, Ltd.

American Can Co.

Full retention of long term holdings in the common and non-callable preferred, latter at 134, is again recommended.

Continental Can Co.

Improving operations and the company's definitely favourable long term outlook justify full retention of current investment holdings. From "Standard Trade and Securities" "Containers (Metal and Glass)" section for July 21, 1933.

Eastman Kodak Co.

While amply discounting earnings possibilities for a considerable period ahead at present advanced levels, the common shares merit retention for the longer term. Holdings in the sound 6 per cent. preferred stock, currently priced around 122, also should be retained.

Gillette Safety Razor Co.

Prospects appear less impressive than those of numerous other available issues; retention of common share commitments, therefore, is not advised. On a yield basis however, holdings in the $5 preference shares, now quoted at 59 need not be disturbed.

From "Standard Trade and Securities" "Miscellaneous Securities" section for July 21, 1933.

Loew's, Inc.

Maintenance of long pull speculative commitments in the common is still justified, on the basis of the company's strong financial and trade positions. The $6.50 preferred also may be retained, because of the attractive yield. Current price: 73.

Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

Recent improvements in the company's position and prospect appears to have been largely discounted in the market appraisal of the common shares and disposal of commitments on any further near term rally is now advised. The inactive $3.85 preferred also appears amply valued at 15 asked, and a switch into a more attractive senior issue is recommended.

From "Standard Trade and Securities" "Theatres and Motion Pictures" section for July 28, 1933.

Asia Lands, Limited, has received the following report from their New York correspondents, E. A. Pierce & Co. The market righted itself today, there being no current development of any importance other than the possibility of a more aggressive attitude by the Administration regarding credit expansion. Without real stimulation no particular or immediate change seems indicated.

Wheat: A very thin market. However, short covering and some commission house buying caused a rally.

Cotton: There has been much less hedge selling. Consequently the market was steadier. Near the close a large line of Mays, apparently bought by one interest, caused a higher close. The weather is less favourable.

Silver: A generally featureless market. Within a narrow range some switching is being done for September.

Business Done: 1,850,000 shares.

U.S. NAVAL RESERVE

Completes Half Century Of Service

A most important branch of the U. S. Navy is the Naval Reserve. Its mission is to procure, organize and train the officers and men necessary in event of war for the operation and expansion of the U. S. Fleet and Naval Transportation Service.

It was born approximately fifty years ago. New York was the first state to join, in the early eighties, with Illinois, California and Massachusetts soon following. Now, every state in the Union is represented, and its total enrollment amounts to approximately 45,000 men. Besides providing regulation training for members, it makes this service, Congress created in Navigation, Engineering, International Law, etc. Headquarters are maintained in each of the country's Naval Districts.

In order to enlarge the scope of this srevice, Congress created in 1928 the Merchant Marine Naval Reserve. This was done to provide a complement to adequate ships and trained men that would be immediately available for Naval service in case of national emergency.

According to the most recent announcement, there are now 153 merchant ships and over 3,000 ships' officers enrolled in this service. Most of the leading American steamship liners are represented in the list.

SCRAPPED SHIPPING

Exceeds New Tonnage In 1933

Shipping scrapped as condemned by the maritime nations last year was more than 70 per cent. greater than the new tonnage added, it was announced on July 13 by the transportation division of the Department of Commerce.

A total of 328 steam and motor ships of 1,296,325 gross tons were so disposed of in 1932, it was stated, while shipping added to the world merchant marine amounted to but 726,591 gross tons. Shipping scrapped or condemned in 1931 totaled 973,000 gross tons and in 1930 was 794,202 tons, none of these figures including tonnage lost by wreck or like causes.

Reports to the division show that nearly a third of the total tonnage scrapped was made up of British vessels, ninety-six of which, amounting to 450,000 tons were disposed of; Italy scrapped eighty vessels of 356,000 tons; Holland twenty of 121,000 tons; France nineteen of 61,000 tons; Greece eighteen of 73,000 tons; Germany eleven of 56,000 tons; United States sixteen of 59,000 tons, and Japan seventeen of 18,000 tons.
